Preparations Made to Get Freedom
For William Hopkins Pending
Appeal to Supreme Court.

HIS BOND IS FIXED AT $1,000

Judge Blair Says Insanity Alone is Not Sufficient Grounds For
New Trial.

William Hopkins, sentenced to prison for two to fourteen years for shooting Lee Somers, and Saturday refused a new trial and clemency from the court, expected to be a free man by four o'clock this afternoon.

Directly after Judge Blair overruled the motion for a new trial in court Saturday afternoon and refused Hopkins a parole on suspended sentence, the attorneys for the defense prayed for an appeal to the supreme court of Indiana.

Before leaving for his home in Shelbyville Saturday night Judge Blair fixed the appeal bond at a thousand dollars but the bond had not arrived so that Hopkins could give it. It came this morning and Mrs. Hopkins came here after it. She returned to Carthage at noon where she expected to get bond for her husband. It was thought that she would arrive back here about three-thirty o'clock and that Hopkins would then be released.

In the motion for a new trial the defense gave five reasons why it should be granted: that Arthur Somers, brother of the prosecuting witness, had been allowed to testify to a conversation that should have been excluded from the evidence; that the court did not give the first five instructions asked by the defense; that it had been found since the verdict of the jury that Hopkins is insane, which was supported by an affidavit of his family physician, Dr. J. A. Sipe of Carthage, and others; that the verdict was contrary to the evidence and that the verdict was contrary to the law.

Judge Blair took up each one in returning the decision. In regard to the allegation that Arthur Somers, brother of the prosecuting witness, gave testimony that should not have been allowed, the court replied that it was brought out in rebuttal when the defense attempted to impeach his testimony. Judge Blair said this was upheld by many decisions and the defense admitted he was right.

As to the second allegation the court said he had covered the instructions asked by the defense more fully than they had demanded.

As regards the third, Judge Blair said the insanity of Hopkins alone would not be sufficient grounds for a new trial. It is a question, he declared, whether he had the mental power to comprehend the deed. He said he found no fault with the attorneys for the defense, because they had conducted the case in a very satisfactory manner. The fact that he was convicted, the court said, was no fault of his lawyers. He said the wife or sons of Hopkins might have made the new evidence known any time.

Judge Blair declared the question of clemency had given him great concern, because it was one which could not be pushed aside lightly. There are people, he said, who always want to help a man who is down, and added that he did not mean to criticize them.

"Notwithstanding this," he continued, "I believe the demand of society and law are such that he should pay the penalty. I realize it will be a hardship on his good wife, but he is asking the court to do something that he could have done."

WHAT HURT EGG MARKET

Cold Storage "Hen Fruit" Sold to Prevent a Loss.

Count on your fingers the number of months from April to January. Then look up the statutes and it will be found that in Indiana and other states food products can not be kept in cold storage longer than nine months. "April eggs" are the instrument by which the women have demoralized the egg market in several large cities. The holders let go of them at prices that would make them move, rather than hold them till January first and probably have them destroyed by government authority.

PENNSYLVANIA TO INSTALL BLOCKS

System Will Be Placed on This Division
of Railway from Richmond to Columbus.

WILL HAVE 3 OPERATORS HERE

Local officials of the Pennsylvania railroad have received word that the company will install a block system on this division from Richmond to Columbus. The work of installing the block system will start about May 1st, 1913, and will be pushed rapidly until completed. Along with the block system will come other improvements. All the passing tracks will be lengthened and the one here will be extended 700 feet. The block system will mean three telegraph operators for this city, Falmouth, Manilla, Shelbyville and Flatrock.

Because of the extensive improvements planned for this division, it is taken here that the company is expecting to enlarge its business and this branch may become an important division. In installing the block system on its own accord the Pennsylvania is beating the railway commission to it, for as yet, the commission has issued no order.

BIG CHRISTMAS
ON FOR ORPHANS

Members of Women's Relief Corps
Plan Celebration For Inmates
of Knightstown Home.

ARE 475 CHILDREN THERE NOW

Reports received by Mrs. Kate Scott, press correspondent for the Women's Relief Corps of Indiana, show that preparations are complete for a big celebration for the 475 orphan children at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home at Knightstown.

The committee in charge of Christmas arrangements is composed of Mrs. Belle W. Ephlin, state president, of Tangier; Mrs. Alice Pike of Danville, Mrs. Lucinda E. Taylor of Indianapolis and Mrs. Sibyl Parent of Tangier. Ninety dolls were obtained all of which were dressed by the women of Maj. Robert Anderson Corps No. 44 and Chapman Corps No. 1 of Indianapolis. The children were permitted to ask for Christmas gifts, and the committee was gratified to find that many of them asked for Bibles.

C. M. YOCUM'S XMAS SERMON

Refers to Sacrifice of Gary Newsboy
as Example of Christmas
Living—Death Not Needed.

Christmas living should be the custom every day in the year, according to the Rev. C. M. Yocum who preached a sermon on "Christmas Living and Christmas Giving" at the Main Street Christian church yesterday. A special program of appropriate music was given. Special sermons were preached at all of the other churches yesterday.

The case of the crippled newsboy of Gary who gave his life to save the life of a girl was referred to by the minister as an example of Christmas living. He recalled that the great steel mills stopped for an hour during the funeral, when they had been in motion ever since the factories started, and that every person in Gary mourned the loss of such a character.

"That sort of sacrifice should be emulated every day in the year," continued the pastor. "Just as deep and great sacrifices can be made with no loss of life. A mother goes into the valley of the shadow of death to bring another being to life, and although she may live, the deed is as noble as if she had died."

The Rev. Mr. Yocum reviewed the history of Christmas giving.

"Too often," he said, "Christmas giving is only a mere exchange, a bid for favor rather than an expression of good will; a disguise of greed, not an outpouring of generosity; a tribute to fashion, not an encouragement to friendliness."

"When the old custom was transferred to Christmas, it came into contact with an idea and an example which vitalized it, transformed it, ennobled it. The idea was unselfish interest in others; the example, the Wise Men and Christ."

The Rev. Mr. Yocum said the first Christmas gift was Jesus Christ. He said gifts should really be given, not bartered or exchanged as they do on court day in Kentucky. He pointed out gifts should be prompted by love because the greatest gift is not one which cost most but the one which carries the most love. It is not the gift of the lover, he said, but the love of the giver.

The gift shall represent the measure of the love, the pastor continued. He quoted: "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son," and pointed out that the word "so" expresses the measure of the gift. Christmas gifts, too, the minister declared, should be accompanied by yourself. Christ's greatest gift, he said, was not sight, hearing, speech or life, but himself.

The minister said Christmas comes but once a year, and that if Christmas living only comes as often it is not durable. He said it was impossible to reach all friends by a gift, but by right living, it is possible to reach all of them. He declared that one could not discharge his obligations with a gift and be done with it.

"In love and friendship small, steady payments on a gold basis are better than immense promissory notes," was his closing thought.

The musical program, which was greatly appreciated, consisted of an anthem, a solo by Miss Helen Scott and a quartet number by Miss Edith Holden, Mrs. M. R. McDaniel, B. F. Miller and Jess Pugh.

FUND TO REACH

Tonight is the last opportunity the managers of the fund have to make an appeal for automobiles to expedite the delivery tomorrow afternoon. The use of only two machines has been secured thus far. In order to deliver all of the packages by Christmas eve so that the children can open them at the proper time, it will be necessary to have at least six machines. It will not require more than an hour's time for any one machine if enough can be obtained. Owners are requested to call the Republican office in the morning.

The Daily Republican Santa Claus fund approached the $140 mark today. It will probably reach $150 by tomorrow night, when it will be closed.

The managers of the fund have expended about that sum already, and there are liable to be minor expenses attached which have not been figured in the cost of delivering and preparing the bundles for delivery.

The sale of the two dolls dressed by Mrs. Harry Francis will realize $10.25 if not more. A bid of $5.00 has been made for one of the dolls by G. P. Hunt and John Young and $5.25 by Morris Winship is the highest offer that has been made for the other one.

The doll market ascended rapidly, point by point, Saturday night. Dora Betker started one of the beauties at $1.50 and Bob. Tompkins made the same offer for the other one. The bidding soon got furious. Dora Betker never allowed one bid to remain long. If it began to get stale he raised it a quarter or a half.

At one point in the game Willard Amos raised it several cents over what Lon Stewart had bid. Some how or other Lon, who was up home in bed, eleven blocks away from the miniature Wall street, heard the news of Willard Amos' coup.

He didn't lie still in bed and let Mr. Amos feel secure in his success. He forsook the warm "hay" and hurried down. He raised Mr. Amos after the latter was home in bed. So the bidding went. Lewis Henry and Warren P. Elder made the game good by raising it a quarter or a half. The bidding will be held open until Xmas eve when the two dolls will be given to the ones making the highest offer so that they can be used for that which they were made.

A crowd of women and girls worked diligently today preparing the Christmas packages for delivery tomorrow afternoon. There were many visitors at the Toolen room to see the Christmas cheer that will be distributed tomorrow.

VAN DERRY TO BE PAROLED

Bank Robber Who "Peached" on Comrade One of 25.

Van Derry, who was the "outside" man in the New Palestine bank robbery in 1910, is one of the twenty-five Indiana prisoners who will be paroled Christmas day by Governor Marshall. One prisoner is to be pardoned. Derry was caught spending money lavishly in Indianapolis and "peached" on his comrade in crime, Cordia Martin, who is now a fugitive from justice. The prison superintendent recommended Derry's parole. His health is failing fast.

FARMER KICKED ON HEAD BY HORSE

William Curry of Near Morristown
Severely Injured by Two Blows
From Vicious Animal.

While returning to his place of residence on the Link Cole farm, one and one-half miles north of Morristown, at a few minutes past noon Saturday, William Curry, a prominent north Shelby county farmer, was kicked twice on the head by a horse which he was leading home, after having had it shod at Morristown, says the Shelbyville News. One blow struck on Mr. Curry's left jaw and the other took effect just below and back of the left ear.

The man was rendered unconscious and remained in that state until several minutes after was found by Charles Olinger, who was also returning home from Morristown. The victim bled considerably from the nose and ears, but it is not thought the injuries will prove fatal.

DATE AGREEABLE TO THE RAILROAD

L. E. & W. Sends Word it is Ready
For Hearing Before Judge
Wood Here Friday.

MERCHANTS URGED TO ATTEND

S. L. Trabue has received word that the date set for the hearing before Judge Woods of the State railroad commission—next Friday—of the petition for better service for the patrons of the local division of the L. E. & W. is agreeable to the railroad. The hearing will begin in the court house assembly room Friday morning at ten o'clock.

The Retail Merchants association is urged to marshal its forces and prepare to make a good showing before the representative of the State commission. It is pointed out that it is of vital interest to the business men to get better service on the L. E. & W. so that people living along the road can visit Rushville. Whatever order the commission makes it now has the power to enforce.

HOLD-UP MAN CAUGHT.

John Burchanan, age twenty, was arrested after a chase through the country, for robbing the Liberty C. H. & D. railroad ticket office of $20. He is the only son of respected parents, and has borne a good reputation in Liberty.

CHICKEN THIEF IS IDENTIFIED

J. H. Spillman, Grocer at Milroy,
Recognizes One of Boys Who
Sold Stolen Property.

OTTIS HESS THEN CONFESSES

Implicates Hamer Foster, Who is Later
Captured at Harrison, Ohio,
—Makes Other Disclosures.

Ottis Hess and Hamer Foster, two Greensburg boys are under arrest for stealing 25 chickens, the property of Marvin McNew and selling them to James H. Spillman, a grocer at Milroy. Hess was taken to Milroy this morning and identified by Mr. Spillman as one of the men who sold him the chicken. Hess, who is only 18 years old, when identified by Spillman, confessed, and implicated Foster. Foster got as far as Harrison, Ohio, when arrested.

The chickens were stolen from Mr. McNew in Greensburg last Friday night and taken to Milroy where they were sold to Mr. Spillman. The two boys received almost $8 for the chickens. In the confession of Hess he says they stole some coal from the Big Four railway and sold it to Mr. McNew. On this visit to his home they discovered the chickens and resolved to steal them, which they did that night.

The boys attempted to escape when they learned that the stolen property had been identified in Milroy. Hess was captured in Greensburg and Foster was taken in Harrison. Policeman Johnson of the Greensburg force went there this afternoon to return him to Greensburg. Foster has a police record in Greensburg having served a term in the Boys' School at Plainfield but as far as is known this is Hess' first offense.

The owner of the chickens, Mr. McNew, identified his fowls in a rather peculiar manner. They responded to his call of "babies, babies" instead of the usual "chickie." Mr. Spillman is in no way to blame for the purchase of the stolen chickens and will probably lose the amount paid.

Horse That Cleaned up Here, Goes to Pittsburgh.

Porter Wiggins, of near Knightstown, has sold his three year old driving colt to James Neale, of Pittsburgh, Pa., says the Newcastle Times. This colt won the silver cup at the Pendleton horse show. It was exhibited at four horse shows, and won eight ribbons. At the Rushville show, which is regarded as one of the best in the state, he won three ribbons in three entries. This colt was sired by Pay Bells, a well-known great breeding stallion and race horse owned by Ross Hunt of Maxwell.

CAUGHT FINGERS IN SAW.

Frank Jones, employed at the Case mill, caught the first and second fingers of his right hand in a saw this morning and it was necessary to amputate them at the first joint. The injury while quite painful will not be serious.

NO PAPER WEDNESDAY.
According to the annual custom of the Republican Company, the Daily Republican will not be issued from the presses next Wednesday, Christmas day, so as to allow the employees of the office a holiday.

Rome, Dec. 23.—Roland Garros, the French aviator, completed his overseas flight from Tunis to Rome Sunday afternoon. A great crowd cheered Garros enthusiastically as he completed his flight. He started for Paris last evening.

MOVEMENT TO FREE
THE APPLE MARKETHousewives' League Entering
On New Campaign.

New York, Dec. 23.—The Housewives' League will start a crusade this week, says Mrs. Julia Heath, national president of the league, having for its object the unloading on the market of apples that are being held in great quantities for an increase in prices.

"The apple market is going to move and it's going to move rapidly," Mrs. Heath said, "and if the dealers do not unload the league will be obliged to enter into competition with apples of its own."

"In a western city recently ten carloads of apples were destroyed because of the over supply. Speculators are not permitting apples to reach the consumers in any great quantities, and everything is being done to keep up the price."

Mrs. Heath said that one of the principal difficulties encountered in getting foodstuffs out of the storehouses is the fact that although shippers are desirous of selling, the commission men refuse to handle their stock. This applies to eggs as well as apples.

"One egg shipper," continued Mrs. Heath, "said to me: 'The commission man is like the dog in the manger—he won't take the eggs from me and he won't let you have them.'"

SHAKEN AGAIN

Messina Suffers Recurrence of Violent Earthquake Shock.

Messina, Dec. 23.—There was a violent earthquake here and at Reggio Di Calabria at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The people are panic-stricken and are camping outdoors. The shock was very severe at Reggio, which, if it had been rebuilt after the last great earthquake, would probably be now in ruins, but the inhabitants are still living in the temporary wooden huts and were uninjured.

Had to Shoot Him Down.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 23.—Trying to escape from a sheriff's posse, seeking him for shooting and fatally wounding his wife and her woman friend, Dominick Gyr, a dairyman, barricaded himself in his home, five miles from here, and was not taken until he was fatally wounded. He lived only a few minutes. He had gone home earlier in the day, quarreled with and shot his wife and the friend, Mrs. Murray Clarke, who sought to intercede.

Epidemic Depopulating Town.

Midville, Ga., Dec. 23.—With thirteen already dead and a number of other cases now being treated for cerebro-spinal meningitis, the people of this city are flying panic-stricken to other sections of Georgia. Practically all the stores in the town are closed, and it is charged that even physicians have deserted their posts and started for other cities.

Deadly Fumes From Stove.

Lebanon, Ind., Dec. 23.—Mrs. Margaret Leach, aged sixty-two, was asphyxiated by fumes from a baseburner at her home near the Hendricks county line. A sister, Mrs. John Barnett of Kansas, who was visiting at the home, nearly lost her life.

There is a report that severe earthquake shocks have been felt in Macedonia.

URGES LAWS FOR WOMEN WORKERSState Factory Inspector Appeals to Legislature.

DO WE LACK IN CHIVALRY?

"The Manhood of Our State," Says Mr. Walsh, "Must Put Forth Its Strong Arm in Defense of the Women or Acknowledge That the Chivalrous Characteristics of Former Days Do Not Now Endure."

Indianapolis, Dec. 23.—John J. Walsh, state factory inspector, is in favor of establishing a woman's department in connection with the state bureau of inspection, to consist of at least two women inspectors, who would look after the welfare of the 51,000 women and girls employed in Indiana factories. Mr. Walsh also strongly urges the passage of a law limiting the hours of labor for women to eight a day.

"The time has arrived when the manhood of our state must put forth its strong arm in defense of the women, or by their lack of action acknowledge the sad fact that the chivalrous characteristics of former days do not now endure," says Mr. Walsh in his annual report. "The enactment of laws that will insure the proper respect and appreciation for the women workers of Indiana constitutes the most important duty that can possibly confront the members of the legislature of 1913."

Mr. Walsh recommends the passage of an adequate theater law, the employment of a sanitary engineer and the employment of additional deputies. With the present limited number of deputies it is impossible to inspect factories and buildings more than once a year. There are 342,136 persons employed in Indiana industries, according to reports made to Mr. Walsh. During the year inspectors ordered the erection of 698 fire escapes and more than half of them have already been installed.

MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY

Congress Will Be Asked to Pass Act
Governing Hoosier's Case.

Richmond, Ind., Dec. 23.—Eugene Prince twenty-two years old, now living in this city, is a man without a country, and in the hope of getting citizenship for the young man, the house of representatives committee on immigration and naturalization at Washington has presented a resolution to congress covering the case.

Prince's grandfather was the representative of an American firm in Russia during the later years of his life and himself was an American citizen. His son, young Prince's father, was born in Russia and is also an American citizen, but the father has never resided in America.

Under the law of the United States American citizenship does not descend to the children of an American citizen who never resided in the United States. For this reason Prince is not an American. On the other hand, the Russian law, under the state of facts, will not grant citizenship to Prince, and when he left Russia a year ago to come to America he could not get a regular passport and a special permit had to be obtained for him through diplomatic circles.

He is now in the employ of the International Harvester company in this country, and unless congress makes him a citizen by special act he cannot travel between America and Russia, as his employers desire.

Deed of a Despondent Woman.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 23.—Despondent on account of ill health, Mrs. Venable Sweek, thirty-five years old, swallowed three ounces of carbolic acid, and when her husband returned home he found her dead. Their two-year-old son was lying at the mother's head badly burned and probably will die. The attending physician said that it appears that the mother poured the acid down her baby's throat.

Counterfeiters at Work.

Anderson, Ind., Dec. 23.—Counterfeit money has been circulated here to a great extent and the police have warned merchants to carefully scrutinize quarters and half dollars taken in. It is the opinion of the police that the work of manufacturing the coin and of passing it is being done by local talent.

It Was a Mistrial.

Richmond, Ind., Dec. 23.—The jury in the case against Jack Lewis, an actor, charged with assault upon a twelve-year-old girl, disagreed after nineteen hours' deliberation and was discharged. The second hearing has been set for Dec. 26.

Christmas Clemency Extended.

Indianapolis, Dec. 23.—Governor Marshall has pardoned one man held in the Indiana reformatory and has granted paroles to twelve other prisoners in the reformatory and the state prison.

Sudden Death of Editor.

Washington, Ind., Dec. 23.—Stephen Belding, political editor of the Washington Democrat, died suddenly in his room in a local hotel. Death is believed to have been due to an aneurysm.

Escalloped Oysters for Xmas
Should Not Be a Pasty Mess

Escalloped oysters for the Christmas dinner should not be a pasty mess. Do not use too soft bread in crumbling them nor too much liquid. Butter over each layer and a few tablespoonfuls of cream poured in at the last are enough.

The shallow earthenware dish that holds not more than two layers of oysters makes a better scallop than the deep, old fashioned pudding dish. If more than one painful is needed there can be a second plateful in the oven ready to be slipped into the silver rim.

Individual scallop dishes, or four or five large oyster shells filled with oysters and covered with bread crumbs and butter, are preferred by many.

When one has been made a present of a barrel or a keg of oysters do not omit the opportunity to give an oyster roast. Invite guests that you know well and also make sure they eat oysters.

Make almost the entire supper of the bivalve. Grapefruit of bouillabaisse can be served first. Have oysters roasted in kitchen and brought in when the shells half opened.

Before each plate have melted butter, an oyster fork, salt and pepper, and an oyster knife for opening the shells.

Serve with the oysters plenty of thin buttered bread, pepperslaw, small Parker House rolls and French fried or Saratoga potatoes. Coffee can be served with the supper, or later.

Have a light salad endive or crisp lettuce, with cheese breads. The dessert after so filling a meal should not be rich. Ginger or mint ice in sherbet glasses is refreshing.

Do not make the mistake of serving large oysters raw at a woman's luncheon. Most women prefer blue points or cherry stones. Raw oysters are more palatable on their own shell than on handsome oyster plates. They must be thoroughly chilled, and preferably should rest on a bed of shaved ice. The lemon with raw oysters should be cut in quarters in the rind. Or in the center of the shell circle have half a lemon with the center partly filled with horseradish.

It is more fashionable now to serve oyster cocktails in the shells with a small slender glass of the sauce in the center of each plate.

Fried oysters for home use are more delicate when done in bread crumbs than in cracker crumbs. They should only be dipped once in the egg and crumbs, otherwise they are too stiff and crusty. Butter is better frying medium than deep fat.

For creamed oysters do not cook them too long in the mixture or they will be tough. The edges should just shrivel. These can be served in ramekins or pate shells, and they are excellent when creamed in a chafing dish.

When oysters are left over from stews or creamed mixtures they can be chopped and used as salad or croquette. For the former the eye must be removed, and it is better to do so for any cooking where the whole oyster is not essential.

FURNESS LINER SPRUNG A LEAK

Only Four Survivors of Ocean Tragedy.

SLOW IN MANNING BOATS

Unable to Make Headway in the Heavy Sea, the Liner Florence, Halifax to Liverpool, Swamped Off Cape Race While Struggling to Make Her Way Back to Shore After Abandoning the Pumps as Useless.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—Near Cape Race the Furness liner Florence was wrecked and twenty-two sailors, including the captain, drowned. The Florence was bound from Halifax to St. Johns, N. F., and after touching there was to have proceeded to Liverpool. She put out from Halifax in rough weather and had sprung a leak before nearing Cape Race, making enough water to cause her to labor in the heavy seas encountered, but no danger was anticipated, Captain Barr being of the opinion, so the survivors state, that on St. Johns being reached the damage could be speedily repaired.

The seas became more heavy and the Florence showed a tendency to become unmanageable, but the effort to round Cape Race and make for St. Johns was the only course open to the captain, as it would have been unsafe to head the steamer about in view of the heavy cross seas and her damaged condition.

The water in the holds gained steadily in spite of all the pumps could do, and finally the water made such headway that it was seen the vessel could not last much longer and Captain Barr ordered the lifeboats to be lowered after being hastily provisioned. One lifeboat was launched in which were the second mate and four other sailors. The second mate noticed an enormous wave coming and cast adrift just in time to avoid being pooped, after which he was driven by the force of the storm away from the vessel. The wave in question broke right over the Florence, sweeping her from stem to stern, and the survivors think some must have been washed overboard, for they distinctly heard a loud cry above the raging of the storm. No attempt was made as far as they could see to launch a second boat. The Florence rapidly settled and within half an hour foundered. The boat with the survivors was kept head-on to the wind and sea, the men in her remaining adrift for two days, but with no idea as to their whereabouts. Early Sunday morning they were sighted by chance by a small steamer bound for St. Johns, and were brought to that port in an exhausted condition and taken to the local hospital, where every attention is being paid them.

The remainder of the crew, twenty-two in all, including the captain, have, it is not doubted, all been lost. The Florence carried a sufficient number of lifeboats to have accommodated all had they been launched before the heavy sea struck her, but she had no wireless apparatus installed, so was unable to communicate her peril to the signal station at Cape Race, or help might have been sent before it was too late. There were no passengers on board.

LED TO ARREST

Curran Committee Holds Two Men Charged With Bribery.

New York, Dec. 23.—David Maier and Charles Duvelier, two men who were arrested by the Curran committee staff on charges of bribing a witness subpoenaed before the grand jury, were held in $7,500 bail each. There are rumors afloat that the investigators had discovered a downtown clearing house for the operators of questionable resorts, or at least a meeting room for those engaged in this business.

District Attorney Whitman and his men are pretty actively engaged just at present in looking up some of this alleged vice graft with particular attention to its ultimate receivers.

Revolution on Mount Athos.

Athens Dec. 23.—Queen Olga intends to pay a visit to the twenty-one monasteries on Mount Athos. This will break the rule forbidding a woman to set foot on the holy mountain, which has been observed for 1,500 years. The chances of war brought the peninsula of Chalcidice into the possession of the Greek troops, and the monks who inhabit the mountain are now Greek subjects. The announcement that the king and queen of the Hellenes proposed to visit them caused a flutter among the monks and they hurriedly summoned the council, which decided that they would be obliged to alter their statutes in order to welcome their queen.

Stanton Fixing to Celebrate.

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 23.—Governor and Mrs. Wilson will leave Princeton Dec. 27 for Staunton, Va., where on the following day the citizens are to celebrate his fifty-sixth birthday. The governor expects to occupy the very room where he was born in the manse of the first Presbyterian church, his father at that time having been pastor of this church.

BANS RED SCHOOLHOUSES.

Member of Chicago Board Says They Make Babies Cross.

Climbing ivy and other vines are to be substituted for red paint on the Chicago school buildings if a suggestion of William Rothmann, one of the members of the board of education, is followed out. An attempt at renewal of a five year custom to paint the buildings red was vigorously opposed by Rothmann, who succeeded in staying the proposed action of the board.

"This idea of painting schoolhouses red every five years is a bad one," said Mr. Rothmann. "The color strikes you in the face two blocks away. It makes the babies in the neighborhood so cross no one can sleep at night."

"We should plant ivy and other vines and the buildings will be covered by nature in a few years. This will eliminate the cost of painting and will be more beautiful than any paint as well as acting advantageously on the minds of children."

ARABIAN NIGHTS' TREASURE HOUSE

The Khazna at Constantinople Holds Precious Jewels.

3000 DIVANS SET WITH GEMS

Dr. Young, Permitted to Visit the Repository, Says There Were Precious Stones Enough In Sight to Buy the World's Largest Navy—New Testament Manuscripts In St. Sophia.

The Rev. Dr. Edward S. Young of Brooklyn, who visited the sultan's treasure house, gives a description of some of the contents that rivals an "Arabian Nights" dream of wealth and tells what the fall of Constantinople might mean to the world at large.

"Constantinople's fall would mean," said he, "the opening up of unparalleled treasures of precious articles, archaeological stores and memorials of Christianity. By an irate of the sultan we were admitted to the Khazna and saw jewelry enough to buy, I suppose, the world's largest navy."

"There were enormous pearls and rubies and other gems believed to be the biggest known to man. A divan there taken by Selim I. from the shah of Persia is of beaten gold and set with thousands upon thousands of pearls, emeralds and rubies, while in the gallery of the same room is a divan incomparably more exquisite and priceless."

Muhrad's Jeweled Scabbard.

"When Christian nations were asking for reimbursements of property lost to our missionary stations at the time of massacres of Armenians Abdul Hamid could have taken the scabbard of the scimitar of Muhrad IV, and paid the whole bill with the diamonds on it, and the relic would not have been missed from the piles of like riches in the Khazna."

"Who can guess the value to students of the monuments and tombs and other antiquities in the museum at Seraglio Point? Scholars have not yet been given free access to these, which appear to me the choicest finds of all the expeditions."

"There is nothing on earth fit to be mentioned alongside of the collection of sarcophagi you there gaze upon, the most gorgeous being spoken of as that of Alexander the Great."

"You read on the lid that rested above Emperor Tabnith of Sidon this inscription: 'If thou openest my coffin and disturbest me, mayest thou have no posterity among the living and no resting place among the dead.' Then you look inside the glass case behind and behold Tabnith's embalmed body."

Christian Antiquity In St. Sophia.

"And what shall I say of the sacred remains of Christian antiquity to be found in the Church of St. Sophia, which was dedicated 1375 years ago the 26th of this December? Out of it passed the Christian congregation, the emperor and the dignitaries on May 28, 1453, the conqueror Mohammed II then taking possession and holding the congregation captives."

"Will the students not find in its walls or cloisters or foundations one of the fifty manuscripts of the New Testament and Septuagint made by skillful calligraphists at the order of Constantine the Great? This Church of St. Sophia was the cathedral church of eastern Christendom—yes, of the whole of the then Christendom—and whatever was cherished most of Christian memorials was brought to its mighty inclosure."

"The fall of Constantinople would mean a new chance for the Bible to defeat the Koran. The Christians of the Holy Oriental Orthodox Apostolic Catholic Greek church (to translate its official title) comprise the majority of the soldiers in the ranks of the allies. The war is between Christians and Moslems, and the capitulation of the capital of Mohammedanism, seat of the sheik ul Islam, would lower the prestige of the false prophet throughout the regions where, taking the three continents, he has some 200,000 followers."

WANT WHITE HOUSE RENAMED

One Set of Historians Claim Name Is a British Slur.

A heated discussion is raging before the Columbia Historical Society of Washington over the common use of the title "White House" for the residence of the president of the United States. One set of delvers into history declare that the title is one of contempt bestowed on the historic mansion by the victorious British shortly after they partially burned it in the war of 1812.

Others maintain that the name was given the building in honor of Mrs. Martha Washington, whose girlhood home on the York river in Virginia bore it. Already the society is divided into two camps and an embryonic movement to petition for the changing of the name of the building is bitterly opposed by the "pro-white houses," as they have been designated.

Ford's Theater to Be Razed.

The old Ford theater building, in which President Lincoln was shot by John Wilkes Booth in 1865, will be razed in the near future. The theater was taken over by the government after the shooting of President Lincoln and is now used for offices.

GUEST OF KING AT FIRST BATTLE

Nicholas Tipped Moses Hostilities Were About to Begin.

SAW OPENING GUN FIRED.

Diplomat, Returning Home, Gives Graphic Description of the Montenegrino Victory at Detchich, Where the Great Struggle Began, and Tells of Allies' Preparedness For Long Fight.

C. H. Moses of Concord, N. H., retiring United States minister to Greece and Montenegro, is the first eyewitness of the battles between the allies and the Turks to bring back to this country graphic pictures of the grim precision of modern warfare. He saw the first gun of the war fired and the first defeat of the sultan's fighting men, having been practically the guest of King Nicholas.

"The attack of the allies upon Turkey was absolutely prearranged," he said. "Every foot of the campaign and the part that each of the little powers was to play in tackling their giant neighbor and common enemy were planned last May. At that time a secret meeting of the military strategists of Montenegro, Serbia, Greece and Bulgaria was held in a little town in Dalmatia. Accurate information as to the strength and degree of preparedness of the Turks was in the possession of these strategists. They knew just when and where to strike."

Knew War Was Inevitable.

"I witnessed the mobilization of the Greeks at Athens and then the mobilization of the Montenegrins at Cetinje, the capital of Montenegro. Everything went as smoothly as a well oiled machine, and even while the big European powers were saying peace could be maintained the leaders of the various little nations knew war was as inevitable as the rising of the sun, because it had been determined upon."

"Two days before the Montenegrins opened hostilities King Nicholas, the much beloved monarch of the little state, called me to an audience and gave me an advance tip."

"If you will go to Detchich," said he, naming a little Turkish town just across the border from Montenegro, "at 8 o'clock next Wednesday morning you will see the first gun of a victorious war fired."

"I followed his advice and promptly at the dot of 8 a. m. a big piece of field ordnance belched a solid shot across the valley to the fortifications behind the Turkish town. The war was on."

"Instantly all the heavy cannon that the Montenegrins had secretly moved across the frontier during the night and placed in positions previously selected opened up on the fortifications and the Turkish guns replied. I stood back with the staff of General Martinovich, the commander of the Montenegro army, and watched the action through field glasses."

Watching the First Battle.

"It was grim. It was terrible. But there was something tremendously inspiring in the sight of the two columns of Montenegrins moving forward with the precision of a football squad advancing the ball. Under cover of the heavy artillery firing the two columns pushed boldly up the heights toward the fortifications, deploying as they went, and soon the roar of volley firing supplied a steady undertone to the booming of the heavy guns."

"I could see the rending and smashing of the Turkish fortifications under the exploding shells from the Montenegrins' guns; watched the long line of white cottonball puffs along the parapets where the red crescent flag waved; followed the detached blocks of men clambering up the heights, inexorably closing in on the doomed fortress."

"Finally, after about five hours of fighting, there was a faint cheer borne across the valley, even above the roar of guns, and I saw the Montenegrins sweep forward in the final dash up the slope to the parapets of the fort itself. Soon it was all over. The red flag waved and dropped, and in its place rose the flag of little Montenegro, while bugles saluted it."

Montenegrins Wonderful Fighters. Mr. Moses said he witnessed two other minor engagements at Tuzl and Teshchamak and saw the preliminary skirmishes of the siege of Scutari.

"The Montenegrins are born fighters," said the retiring minister. "Physically they are such magnificent men that anybody under six feet in height is counted a dwarf. General Martinovich, the commander, is the one great dynamo of the country—commander, secretary of state, treasurer and everything else combined. He is a marvel."

"The first victories over the Turks were expected by the allies, but it has been a great surprise to them as well as to the European observers that the Turks have not recovered from their initial reverses. The allies expected grim resistance, yet they have just begun to meet it at the doors of Constantinople itself."

Now the Stingless Bee.

Dr. J. A. Nelson, the bee expert of the department of agriculture, has discovered a "stingless" bee, which, however, being deprived of the bitterness of its sting, also lacks the sweetness of honey-making.

The Fact That We Are Selling the Most of the Storm Buggies This Year

is easily accounted for. It is no trouble to sell a buggy if you have the best buggy, the best price, and the best terms. We claim these three points of advantage but are willing to leave the matter to you to decide whether or not our claim is a just one. We believe that you will agree with us on this decision if you will take the time to come in and see our stock of storm buggies. We also believe that if we can convince you of the fact that we can give you the best buggy at the best price and on the best terms, and you want a Storm Buggy that we can sell you what you want. Remember our buggies are different in style as well as quality and if you buy one of them, you will be satisfied with it.

Fresh Air in Winter.

In a recent announcement by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis was included this statement: "Fresh air is probably the world's best medicine, not only in the treatment of disease but of its prevention. Not one person in one hundred gets enough fresh air at his work, at his rest or in his sleep."

It is particularly well to remind yourself of the value of fresh air now, at the coming of colder weather. The season of the year is approaching when remarks about "What are you trying to do, warm the whole outside?" are in order, both from the fearsome landladies and from economical husbands.

But it is a whole lot better to warm a little of "all outdoors" than to go without fresh air. Gas bills are cheaper than doctor bills, after all, and less headache accompanies their payment.

In one of the boroughs of London the city has taken upon itself the duty of requiring all rooms used for sleeping purposes to be properly ventilated. It is plain that such a requirement will be readily acceded to in summer, but in winter there will be trouble. So many people seem to have the idea that cold air means fresh air. On that theory in winter a window need never be opened. A fire could simply be turned off until the temperature dropped to the "fresh" degree.

People are healthier, as a whole, in May, June and July, and it is because they get plenty of fresh air. Don't forget this medicine of nature may be obtained just as easily in December as in June and that it is worth just as much to you and your family.

Farmers' Parcels Post.

Before long, farmers will be delivered food products direct to town customers by parcels post.

Take the case of a farmer living 10 miles from this city. He, of course, realizes that many people would like to buy eggs, fruits, butter, vegetables, etc., direct from the farms. But the time of himself or a capable man, delivering such products from door to door, with horse or automobile, would be worth at least $4 to $5 a day.

Add to this the loss to his business from his absence. Probably altogether it would cost him at least $10 a day.

The parcels post would permit a farmer to mail 20 five pounds packages to customers in this town for $3.40. Lighter packages would be much less. In cases where he lives on a rural route, he could mail them to the town where the route starts for $1.80. His customers will pay the postage and advertising bills to get fresh goods and save middlemen's profit.

The way to connect with the people who want this service is to advertise in the local paper. A small notice in the classified columns of this newspaper will soon give a farmer a list of customers for such products as can be delivered by the parcels post, up to 11 pounds weight.

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture has lived in Washington for more than forty years. The shrewdest politicians in the land concede this to be a remarkable feat.

Twenty-five billions capital controlled by 189 men, so the Pujoc committee learns, and some of the 189 are supposed to feel that they have money enough to live on comfortably.

Not merely did J. P. Morgan have to wait an hour to testify at Washington, but President Taft was not waiting at the railroad station to welcome him to the Capitol.

President-elect Wilson says he will not shake hands with all the people who come to Washington, but he made no rash statement like that before election.

CUFF BUTTONS FOR SAM.

As a token of their esteem and their appreciation of his services during the recent campaign, the county candidates on the Democratic ticket late Saturday afternoon presented Samuel L. Trabue, their county chairman, with a pair of diamond-studded cuff buttons. The committee appointed to make the presentation speech consisted of Voorhees Cavitt, sheriff-elect; Cary Jackson, State senator-elect and Edson L. Aiken, commissioner-elect. Mr. Jackson was the spokesman of the committee and made the presentation speech. Mr. Trabue says that he appreciates the gift very deeply, not so much for the worth of it as for the meaning of it. And he's wearing them every day.

WELL KNOWN AS POULTRY JUDGE

S. B. Lane, Age 60, Who Had National Reputation, Expires at Home in Spiceland.

GRIPPE AND HEART TROUBLE

Fatal Illness Attacks Him While on Way to Chicago to Act as a Judge.

Samuel B. Lane, age 60, one of Spiceland's most prominent citizens, treasurer of the school board and known all through the middle west as an expert chicken judge and fancier, is dead at his home there following a week's illness with grippe and heart trouble.

Mr. Lane took sick a week ago Friday while he was on the train going to Chicago from Princeton, Ill., where he had been judging a chicken show. He was cared for the trainmen and passengers as well as possible until the train reached Chicago, when he was taken to a hospital.

Hospital physicians stated that he was suffering from the grip and found that his heart's action was weak and advised him to remain in Chicago a few days, until he was in a fit condition to travel. However, Mr. Lane caught the evening train for Newcastle, arriving there at 4 o'clock Saturday morning. He took the first T. H. I & E. car for Spiceland.

As soon as he reached home he was forced to take to his bed and had been gradually growing worse since that time. For the last two days his heart action has been so weak that it has been almost impossible to distinguish any pulse. He never lost consciousness and passed away very peacefully.

Mr. Lane is survived by his wife, eight daughters, Mrs. Joseph Bronson of Indianapolis, Mrs. Emma Crim, New Castle; Mrs. W. A. Wake of Texas, Misses Aurie Lane of Spiceland and Mrs. Thomas Gibson, Mrs. Clarence Reser and Mrs. Henry Reser of Montana, and three sons, Arlo of Xenia, Ohio, and Russell and Chester of Montana.

The funeral will be held at the M. E. church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, with Rev. Alice Lawrence of New Castle in charge. Interment will take place at the Spiceland cemetery.

IRON LID BITES HIM IN THE NOSE

Indiana University Student is Hurt When he Lights Match Near Gas Generator.

ACCIDENT NEAR FAIRVIEW

An explosion of acetylene gas in the cellar at the Grant Hinchman home, two and one-half miles southeast of Fairview, last evening, did serious injury to Clarence Hinchman, who was hit in the face by the flying lid from the generator, says the Connersville News of Saturday evening.

The young man, who is twenty-one years of age, and a student in the medical class in Indiana University, had arrived home for Christmas only a few minutes before the accident occurred. The lights in the house, supplied by the apparatus in the cellar, grew weak and the young man went down intending to correct the difficulty. He removed the lid of the generator, a heavy disc of iron, and, in the course of his work, lighted a match to see better. There was enough gas in the enclosed space of the generator to cause a small explosion. The heavy lid, which was in the path of the expanding gas, was shot up with sudden power, and struck Mr. Hinchman on the forehead and along the right side of the nose, in the region of the eye. The bridge of the nose was fairly beaten in by the blow, and the eye shared in the injury, but received no hurt that will be lasting.

STOCKMEN WILL MEET AT COURSE

Various Conventions Will Take Place During Farmers' Meetings at Purdue University.

STOCK JUDGING CLASSES ON

Noted Experts on Stock Will Give Lectures During Course Jan. 14, 15 and 16.

A most instructive part of the annual Farmers' Short Course at Purdue University promises to be the various stockmen's conventions which will meet at that time. The Indiana Sheep Breeders' and Feeders' Associations have a most interesting program scheduled for Tuesday, January 14, 1913. Sir George Cavan, of International reputation as a sheep breeder and importer will speak on the subject, "An English Sheep Farm in America." Prof. F. G. King will lecture on "Lamb Feeding for the Market," and Prof. H. L. Allen on "Food and Clothing—Mutton and Wool."

Wednesday evening, January 15th will be given over to the annual meetings of the Indiana Hereford Breeders' Association, Indiana Shorthorn Breeders' Association, and Indiana Angus Breeders' Association for each of which meetings a most interesting program has been arranged. On this same evening a joint association reception will be held in the Memorial Gymnasium for all attending farmers.

On Thursday, January 16, the annual meeting of the Indiana Live Stock Breeders' Association will be held. In the forenoon, Secretary D. O. Thompson will address the meeting upon the subject "More Live Stock for Indiana," and the principal address of the afternoon will be delivered by Prof. D. H. Otis of the Department of Farm Management of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture, upon the subject, "The Farmer as a Business Manager."

All the men in attendance will be given opportunity to attend the stock judging classes held throughout the week by the Animal Husbandry Department of the School of Agriculture.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend all of these sessions of the various live stock men of Indiana.

BE CAREFUL.
The mails are overburdened with packages and letters containing Christmas presents. Every sender expects speedy transportation and prompt delivery. It will greatly aid the postal employees in handling mail if the person sending a package or letter will see to it that the name of the addressee, the street and number, when possible, the city or town, and the state, are plainly written thereon with ink. Also that the return address, showing who it is from, appears in the upper left hand corner. If everybody will observe this admonition the number of undelivered packages and letters will be reduced to the minimum.

COURT CALENDAR IS LOADED DOWN

Number of Cases Set For February

Term Next Year is Larger Than Usual.

ONLY TWO CRIMINAL CASES

"Oodles" of Judgments Returned by Judge Blair in Closing up Last Term's Business.

The calendar for the February term of court is almost filled with cases. The number is larger than usual. Few of them are of any special interest. Only two State cases are set for trial; that against Mrs. Sarah Richey for the theft of several turkeys from Mrs. Lot Holman and the charge of assault and battery against John Ryan, a former road supervisor, who is charged in a grand jury indictment with attacking the trustee of Richland township.

Judge Blair returned many decisions late Saturday afternoon just before leaving for his home in Shelbyville. A number of quiet title and partition suits were settled.

In the quiet title suit of Omer B. Green against Thomas Roberts and others, seventeen defendants defaulted and Wallace Morgan was appointed special guardian for each of them. He filed an answer and finding and judgment was returned for the plaintiff, quieting the title to the property in question.

The final report of the commissioner was approved in the partition suit of William F. Matney and others against Mary McNair and others.

Finding judgment was returned for the plaintiff in the partition suit of John P. Kirk against Mary E. Kirk.

Judgment on the verdict of the jury for the defendant in the case of Frank Wilson against Edward Frazee for $1,200 damages was returned by Judge Blair.

Finding and judgment for the plaintiffs for $161, principal and interest, was returned in the case of the directors of the Combination Sale company against John F. Kirk. The directors alleged $157.20 was due them for a horse sold to Mr. Kirk at a combination sale. Kirk's defense was that the horse was moon-eyed and in other ways was not what it was represented to be. The evidence was heard Saturday.

The case of Lawrence L. Allen against Jesse I. Hinton, James McDaniel and Charles O. Kennedy on a note, and for attachment and garnishment, was dismissed by agreement of the parties and the costs were adjudged against Hinton.

Judgment on the verdict of the jury in the sum of $1,323 was allowed in the claim of Lola Souther against Robert S. Longfellow, administrator of the estate of J. F. Souther.

In the case where exceptions to the final report of the commissioners were filed by Rebecca Newkirk, executor of the estate of William R. Newkirk, deceased, against Melvina J. Harrison and Clara Ann Gartin, finding and judgment was for the plaintiff.

The restraining order as to personal property was released in the divorce case of Fannie Brookbank against Ira W. Brookbank. Mrs. Brookbank asks $7,000 alimony. A restraining order was issued shortly after the complaint was filed to restrain the husband from disposing of any of his personal property of real estate.

Finding for the defendant was returned in the case of Frank Thompson against Warren P. Elder in proceedings supplementary to execution. The evidence was heard Saturday. The judge found that the defendant has no property subject to exemption.

The following is the court calendar for the February term next year:

Feb. 3—Calling dockets and issues Oldham vs. Carr.

Feb. 4—State vs. Richey.

Feb. 5—Williams vs. Nelson, Federal Chemical Co. vs. Ryburn, et al.

SOCIETY NEWS

Wallace Beer, was pleasantly surprised Saturday afternoon at his home in North Morgan street by a number of his young friends, the occasion being his eighth birthday. Sunday evening a birthday dinner was served in his honor.

Many compliments have been paid Mrs. May W. Donnan for the sweet thought expressed in the Christmas greeting given to her class at its meeting at the Graham school building Saturday afternoon. It follows in full:

"Blessed be the season which brings a message of peace, the season which tells us to forgive, which teaches us tolerance and patience, which opens our eyes to the foolishness of anger, the weakness of remembering injuries, the littleness of nursing our wrath to keep it warm.

"Blessed be the season which brings a message of good-will, the season which bids us think well of all mankind, which counsels us to try to understand acts and conditions of mind of which we ourselves have had no experience, the season which bids us be generous, and yet to value less the things that may be bargained for and bought than the things which are above prices, fine friendship, loyal love, the regard that is not based on personal interest or advantage.

"Blessed be the season which recalls the entire song the angels sang. They sang not only of peace and good-will, not only of the birth in the city of David of a Saviour who is Christ the Lord, but they chanted the noblest song of all—

Glory to God the great Giver.
Glory to God in the Highest."

A wedding of interest in Indianapolis, Rushville and Evansville was solemnized Saturday evening at the home of Miss Grace Kieble in Evansville, the bride being Miss Ruth Saffold Harrison, daughter of Mrs. Pauline Harrison, and the bridegroom, Myron R. Green of Indianapolis, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Green of this city.

The appointments were in pink and green and all the rooms were trimmed elaborately with pink roses and masses of Southern smilax. There were no attendants. Miss Louise Cavander played the march from "Tannhaeuser" for the entrance of the bride and bridegroom. The ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Hymes of the Grace Presbyterian Church.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin charmeuse elaborated with carrickmacross lace and her tulle veil was trimmed with the same lace. The bridal bouquet was of lillies of the valled and maidenhair ferns with streamers of white satin ribbons and tulle.

Following the ceremony there was an informal wedding supper. The dining room was also in pink and green decorations and the bridal colors were carried out in the ices and confections, which were in bridal bell, slipper and cupid designs, and the cakes were heart-shaped and decorated with pink rosebuds. Mr. Green and his bride departed later in the evening for a wedding journey and will be at home after Jan. 15 at 2896 Sutherland avenue, Indianapolis. The bride's traveling suit was of violet charmeuse velvet with a hat of the same tones. Among the guests were the bride's brother, Edward M. Harrison of Chicago, who gave his sister in marriage, and Miss Elizabeth Denning of St. Paul.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess will have the usual change of program tonight, showing two reels of pictures. "An Elephant on their Hands" is the title of the first, a Vitagraph comedy. The other is a Lubin western drama "The Uprising." Tomorrow afternoon a free matinee for children under 12 years of age will be given and on Christmas Day a matinee at the usual price is announced.

The Ercie will show a drama "The Price of Paradise" for the first picture tonight. The other is a comedy entitled "The Jack of Diamonds."

The Palace has a feature picture "The White Fawn" for the first film tonight. It is a Shamrock drama and is said to be a beautiful production. "Two Little Boys" is the title of the other an Eclair comedy.

Robert B. Mantell, considered the legitimate successor on the American stage of that distinguished line of tragedians which included Forrest, Kean, McCullough, the Booths, and Mansfield, and the only actor in this country now attempting the heavier roles of Shakespeare and the other classical dramatists, comes to the Shubert-Murat Theater, Indianapolis. Monday evening for a Christmas week's engagement in a formidable repertoire. Mr. Mantell will be seen first as Brutus in an elaborate production of "Julius Caesar." This play, perhaps the most popular in America, owing to its wide use in the schools and colleges, of all the Shakespearean dramas will be repeated at the Saturday matinee.

Mr. Mantell's leading woman this year is Miss Florence Rockwell, who, when a girl, received training in classic acting in the strict school of Richard Mansfield with whom she became leading woman.

Mr. Mantell's repertoire for the week in Indianapolis is made up of "Julius Caesar," Monday evening and Saturday afternoon; "Hamlet," Tuesday evening; "The Merchant of Venice," Wednesday afternoon, "Othello," Wednesday evening; "King Lear," Thursday evening; "Macbeth," Friday evening, and "Richard III," Saturday evening.

Mr. Mantell has made special Christmas week prices of 50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.50 for his Indianapolis engagement. Mail orders with remittance will be filled in order of their receipt. The regular box office sale opened Thursday.

Barber Shops Close.

All union barber shops will close at ten o'clock a. m. Christmas Day.

Assortments Cannot Long Continue Complete

There is a limit to all stocks of toys no matter how big to begin with, and many of our lines are fast nearing depletion. Many of these things cannot be re-ordered in time for Christmas, which emphasizes the importance of not courting disappointment by waiting until the last minute to choose.

Here are tiny dolls and big dolls, dressed and undressed. Steam engines, magic lanterns—whole menageries of wild animals. Our Christmas "Toyland" is a fairyland of many mysteries to the childish mind. Let's forget the passing years and go back to the days of childhood for a little while.

HELP WANTED IN RUSHVILLE

And Furnished by the Help of Rushville People.

Those who suffer with kidney, backache, urinary ills or any little kidney or bladder disorder, want kidney help. Who can better advise than some Rushville resident, who has also suffered, but has had relief. Rushville people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's one case and there are many others.

Mrs. Jacob Roth, 820 N. Perkins St., Rushville, Ind., says: "We always have Doan's Kidney Pills in the house and are glad to confirm what we previously said in their praise. This remedy has been used time and time again by different members of the family and has never failed to give relief from kidney and bladder trouble. I know that Doan's Kidney Pills can be relied upon and I never fail to recommend them when I hear anyone complaining of kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Is your husband cross? An irritable, fault finding disposition, is often due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. A great many have been permanently cured of stomach trouble by taking Chamberlain's Tablets. For sale by all dealers.

CASTRO HEADED BACK TOWARD HOME SHORES

Exiled Venezuelan Dictator Sails for New York.

Havre, Dec. 23.—On the French liner La Touraine, which has sailed for New York, ex-President Cipriano Castro of Venezuela is a passenger. The former dictator of Venezuela, who got into serious trouble with the United States by defying that country in the matter of settling financial obligations, has been staying at Passy with a former Venezuelan general. He engaged a waiter at the Cafe Riche as his valet and it was through the latter that his whereabouts was ascertained. As a result the police set a watch on Castro and were after him when he arrived with his valet and boarded the steamer.

Castro, as soon as he arrived, boarded the ship and went immediately to his cabin, which he engaged under the name of Ruiz, having abandoned the pseudonym of Quinters, which he has hitherto used, as that is now too well known. The news of Castro's presence on board the vessel spread rapidly and all the passengers tried to get a glimpse of him. He bore the scrutiny unconcernedly and remained at the gangway until the Touraine was in the roadstead, when the police inspectors who had been watching his departure left the ship and returned to port.

Will Debar Him From Landing.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Castro, according to information in the possession of the state department, is suffering from a contagious disease that will prevent him being admitted to the United States under the immigration laws.

Seasoned Veterans Now.

Rhinebeck, N. Y., Dec. 23.—The remnant of the suffragette army, the faithful four, hit the road into this town last night, stepping high and strong. They are used to it now, and heavy shoes and rough roads have no terror for them.

GOVERNOR DONAGHEY

Arkansas' Chief Executive,
Who Freed 360 Convicts.

GOVERNOR DONAGHEY DEFENDS HIS ACTION

Demands Abolition of Arkansas Convict System.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 23.—Governor Donaghey has issued a statement in defense of his action in issuing pardons to 360 state convicts, characterizing the Arkansas penitentiary "under the lease system as a burning, seething hell, consuming human beings," who are "being fed into it in a manner which results in nothing but making fortunes for contractors."

The executive, answering his critics, previously had said that "all those who oppose the abolishment of the inhuman convict system which we now have in Arkansas are, in my opinion, bound in the direction of that place spoken of by Governor Bleasie in connection with the constitution, and it is my belief they are going to land there in spite of every effort of mine to prevent them doing so."

According to a newspaper compilation forty-three of the convicts pardoned were convicted of murder or manslaughter, 111 of grand larceny, four of assault, five of robbery, nineteen of forgery, thirty-two of burglary, twenty-six of assault to kill, and others of crimes ranging from hog stealing to bigamy.

May Cost Him His Life.

Shelbyville, Ind., Dec. 23.—Claude Shaw, forty-three years old, lost an arm through the accidental discharge of a shotgun. Seeing a squirrel, Mr. Shaw seized the gun by the muzzle as it rested against a bush and the hammer was pulled back by a twig. The charge shattered his left arm above the elbow and he nearly bled to death before medical aid could reach him. His condition is dangerous.

Panama Awaits Mr. Taft.

Panama, Dec. 23.—President Porras has issued a decree naming Former Presidents Mendoza, Boyd and Chiari as a committee to organize a reception and series of festivities to President Taft, who is now on his way here. The general opinion here is that the visit of Mr. Taft will result in the reorganization of the government of the canal zone.

Boy Killer Found Guilty.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 23.—After twenty-six hours of deliberation the jury in the case of Frank Hickey, on trial for the murder of seven-year-old Joseph Joseph of Lackawanna, Oct. 12, 1911, brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree. The penalty is not less than twenty years at hard labor in state prison.

Steamship Long Overdue.

Philadelphia, Dec. 23.—Great concern is felt by shipping men for the steamship Snowden Range, which sailed from this port on Nov. 23 for Leith, Scotland. Nothing has been heard of the ship, which is fourteen days overdue. The vessel carried a crew of twenty-five men.

Registered Mail Stolen.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 23.—Two rifled mail sacks stolen from a Wabash train were found in a vacant lot here. One of the pouches had contained registered mail, and the officials say the loss will aggregate over $10,000.

CHURCH DRAWN INTO CONFLICT

Mexican Muss Stirred Up By
New Factor.

THE CABINET IS IN DANGER

Action of Minister of Interior in Appealing to the Catholic Church Authorities to Take a Hand in Pacification of the Rebels Has Led to the Exercise of Powerful Pressure to Oust Him From the Cabinet.

Mexico City, Dec. 23.—Every effort is being made by President Madero to discount the action of Rafael Hernandez, minister of the interior, who appealed to the Catholic church authorities to assist in the pacification of Mexican rebels. The administration has issued an appeal to the Protestants and the Free Masons of the republic to lend their aid in stamping out the bandits and insurgents scattered from one end of the country to the other. At the same time Hernandez has been severely rebuked and powerful pressure is being brought to bear to have him ousted from the cabinet.

One result of the appeal of the cabinet member to the Catholic church is the bloodthirsty threat made by Zapata, rebel leader in the southern states, who announced that if any Catholic priest should preach or pray against the Zapatistas, that priest would be immediately shot.

Bloody Battle at Ascension.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 23.—Two hundred and fifty federal soldiers of the Mexican army were annihilated by rebels in a fight at Ascension, 100 miles south of Juarez, according to refugees who fled from the place when the fighting was in progress. These refugees brought an official confirmation to General Aubert at Juarez, from the commander of the federal forces, who declared that he and fifteen men had escaped and were making for Casas Grandes, further south.

ROUNDING THEM UP

Chicago Police Believe They Have Famous Automobile Bandits.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Nine persons, five men and four women, are under arrest in connection with the murder of J. H. Logue, diamond merchant in McVicker's theater building, and the police are strongly inclined to believe that they have succeeded in breaking up a dangerous gang of bandits. At least, some of the prisoners are suspected of participating in or knowing something about nearly all the safe blowings and other criminal depredations that have taken place in Chicago in the last fortnight. Search of the north side flat where the prisoners had lived revealed a large quantity of nitroglycerine, safe wreckers' tools and thousands of dollars' worth of jewelry and miscellaneous plunder.

The persons held by the police are: Clyde Stratton, a convict who escaped from the penitentiary at Columbus, O.; H. B. Hampden, declared by the police to be a safeblower with many aliases; Mrs. H. B. Hampden; Mrs. Margaret Johnson, said to be the wife of a safeblower known as "Toronto Jimmie" Johnson; Frank Williams, declared by the police to have a prison record; William Duffy, a chauffeur; Clifford Dyslen, a chauffeur; a woman known as Edna Collyer, and an unidentified woman, said to be a relative of Mrs. Johnson.

CAUGHT IN BLAZE

Fire in a Brussels "Movie" Claims Many Lives.

Brussels, Dec. 23.—Many persons were killed when fire broke out in a moving picture theater here. The fire, which began during the matinee performance, destroyed the building. Some of the people in the theater were burned to death, while others were caught in the crush at the door and suffocated.

Complicates the Situation.

Constantinople, Dec. 23.—The Turkish cabinet held a conference Sunday in reference to the representations received from the plenipotentiaries at the London peace conference after Saturday's meeting had adjourned because the Bulgarians and the other allies would not agree to the revictualing of Adrianople. New instructions were telegraphed to London. The opinion is that the porte will appeal to the powers to help them in reaching an agreement.

Sickles's Son to the Rescue.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 23.—Stanton Sickles, son of General Daniel E. Sickles of New York, has promised to see that the state is reimbursed for all funds unaccounted for by his father as chairman of the New York state monument commission, totalling about $28,000.

Senator Attacked by Appendicitis.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Suffering from a sudden attack of appendicitis, Senator Lee A. Overman of North Carolina was taken to the hospital. The physicians decided to delay the operation until the patient's condition improved.

TELLS OF HARDSHIP THE TERRITORY OF

Dr. Anderson Collected 1,000
Rare Specimens of Animal Life.

THE return to New York several days ago of Dr. Rudolph Anderson, biologist and second in command of the Stefansson-Anderson expedition sent to the arctic in the interests of the American Museum of Natural History and the Canadian geological survey, marked the end of nearly four years and a half of observation and exploration undertaken by him and Vilhjalmur Stefansson.

It was Dr. Anderson's job to investigate the conditions of animal life in the region of Coronation gulf, a part of the body of water separating Victoria island from the Mackenzie territory of the mainland.

In his collection of 1,000 specimens are the skins and skeletons of many rare animals and birds, of which the nineteen Barren island bears are perhaps the most valuable. The bird collection includes specimens of the whistling swan, black brant, Hutchins' goose, northern and red phalarope, snowflake, Lapland longspur, parasitic jaeger, red throated loon and willow ptarmigan, all from the vicinity of Colville delta.

Dr. Anderson said that the expedition had collected enough scientific data of value to make it worth the four years and a half spent out of reach of civilization.

"We covered nearly the entire coast from Colville river to Coronation gulf," said Dr. Anderson, "making several trips inland along the Mackenzie, Horton and Dease rivers and finding in some regions, hitherto marked uninhabited, tribes of Eskimos that had never before seen a white man."

"Among the so called blond Eskimos we found copper needles in use instead of bone ones, and most of their other utensils were made of copper also. The supply of this metal is abundant in this region, a great deal of it called copper float, being on the surface and easily recognizable. Of course the difficulty in making any use of this storehouse of riches lies in the fact that there is no way of transporting it."

Blond Eskimos Poor Marksmen.

"These Eskimos still use spears and bows and arrows to kill game for food, and they are amazingly poor marksmen. A group of them shot more than twenty arrows at a single ptarmigan one day before they killed it. Their implements are all of the most primitive variety.

"There is an immense territory south of the Endicott mountains and north of the Yukon which the white prospectors have not yet reached except in a few places. The Rampart house and Fort Yukon Indians do not range so far north except in summer, and the Eskimos seldom cross the mountains. To the knowledge of the natives, no white man had ever crossed the mountains in this region.

"Starting inland in December, 1908, we decided that it would take too long to return to Flaxman island for flour and other supplies before crossing the mountains, and, having as much mutton as we could carry on our sleds, after leaving a few carcasses cached to fall back upon near the end of the Hulahula river, we crossed the divide on Dec. 4. The week before we had hauled a load of meat to within a quarter of a mile of the summit and camped one night above the willow line.

"We now took the sleds over singly by putting ten dogs in harness with six men hooking and pulling. Descending a rocky creek gorge, we reached large willows before night. The second day devoted to hunting brought in one sheep out of eleven.

"The third day's travel brought us to green spruce trees. Ptarmigan were scarce and hard to find, as the river valley was wild. We were on pretty short rations before we struck the caribou herds on the high foothills on Dec. 18. The snow was very deep and soft on the south side of the divide. Our sleds were soon stalled, and we were delayed three days cutting trees, hewing out boards and making toboggans."

Had Porcupine Dinner.

"A trail had to be snowshoed ahead, and travel was slow, all hands 'slugging' in harness with the dogs. Two porcupines and a great gray owl proved welcome additions to our larder. Canada jays were observed a few miles north of the limit of spruce trees, and ravens were often in sight.

"During the latter part of December we saw many caribou, at one time more than 1,000 within rifle range—a magnificent spectacle. We lived in tents until Dec. 27, when we built a hut of poles covered with blocks of moss, living in it until late in January, occasionally seeing caribou, which were always moving eastward.

"We had a rather thrilling experience in the fall of the next year, 1909, when, after a hard trip over deep soft snow with heavily loaded sleds, we crossed a deep estuary seven or eight miles wide at the mouth of a large river known as the Kugalluk (the western mouth of the Anderson river).

"We crossed in a blinding snowstorm and were stopped near the eastern side by a strip of very thin ice, from 100

ments From Abundant

to 200 yards wide. We followed the edge of this lead south for about half a mile and barely succeeded in crossing a lead about seventy-five yards wide, rushing the sleds across singly, although the ice sagged deeply.

"On the morning of Nov. 23, 1909, three of us left Horton river to get a large number of needed articles cached in an old house near the wreck of the steam whaler Alexander at Cape Parry. The thermometer stood at 31 degrees below zero, and a gale was blowing from west-northwest, with snow drifting everywhere, but as the wind was a little abate we made good time.

"We expected to reach Langton bay in one 'sleep,' so took only six small fish with us—one each for supper and the same for breakfast. But the next day the wind increased, blowing all the ice away from the beach, necessitating much hard pulling over bare ground and sand covered snow. Nov. 25 we were unable to travel at all, and we reached Langton bay on the evening of the 26th after a fast of sixty hours.

Bears Raided Stores.

"We reached the cache near the wreck of the Alexander on Dec. 3. Polar bears had broken into the house and devoured four boxes (about 500 pounds) of whale blubber (all our dog food), two slabs of bacon, overturned and spilled a ten gallon can of alcohol (all we had left) and knocked things about generally. Bears had also cleaned out a cache of ugnuk (bearded seal) meat and blubber which Stefansson had made some distance down the ford.

"We started back to Mackenzie delta on June 16, 1910, finding traveling much better, as the snow had disappeared and water had run down through cracks, leaving a smooth surface of solid ice five or six feet thick, but rapidly disintegrating into sharp prismatic needles.

"Travel was rapid, but exceedingly hard on the dogs' feet, which had to be protected by boots or often rewrapped in calico. Sailing from Kittigaryuit on June 19, three days brought us from the ice fields to the almost tropical heat of the Mackenzie delta proper. Mosquitoes were abundant, and on the 22d I found a robin's nest with four young birds. The season seemed to be fully a month further advanced than it was twenty-five or thirty miles north. Fresh moose tracks were seen, and rabbits appeared to be numerous.

"We crossed the divide on Sept. 21 and camped on the southern slope, although with no fuel but green willows. Next day we moved south about six miles before we sighted a band of ten caribou. We made camp at once and succeeded in killing eight. It was dark before I finished skinning two for specimens, and, failing to find camp, I was obliged to walk the rest of the night to keep from freezing.

"During our entire four years and a half the times when we depended upon the supplies we brought from civilization we often went hungry, but the year during which we lived on the country we never missed a single meal."

"Whenever we got in touch with ships, however, a certain amount of provisions must be obtained to satisfy native employees, who seemed to consider the 'luxuries' of civilization (flour, molasses, etc.) more necessary than did either Stefansson or myself. A native lives only in the present and considers that he is justified in demanding whatever creature comforts are obtainable, while we were willing to make sacrifices in order to accomplish an end some distance in the future.

Hard Sledging With Specimens.

"After Dr. Stefansson had left the party I went back to Coronation gulf, where my 1,000 specimens had been cached. We loaded them on sledges, of which we had only two, and dragged them in three trips to Baile Island, ninety miles away, the total weight of the whole collection being about five tons. By a mere lucky chance we were able to haul the whaler Belvedere, which cleared from Bedford, R. I., thirty years ago and has never returned to the Atlantic coast.

"We loaded the specimens and then spent several months cruising for whales, of which we got a number of fine specimens. We killed them with hard lances, at the end of which were concussion bombs, which exploded inside the whale's body.

"I repacked everything at San Francisco, including a fine collection of nineteen rare Barren Land bears."

BOY WANTS TO GO TO PLAINFIELD CHRISTMAS TIME SEES MANY FIRES

Youth Who Stole Horse and Buggy at Knightstown Expresses Unusual Wish.

JUDGE PREFERS FARM LIFE

Says he Has Little Faith in Reform Results Obtained at State Institution.

Roy McLearn, the sixteen-year-old Virginia boy, who was arrested in Indianapolis two weeks ago on the charge of stealing a horse and buggy from a hitchrack in Knightstown and who was returned to Newcastle by the members of the Knightstown Horse-thief Detective association, was arraigned before Judge Jackson in circuit court Saturday, says the Newcastle Courier. He entered a plea of guilty and sentence was withheld, pending an opportunity to secure employment for the youngster.

The boy expressed a desire to go to the Plainfield reform school for boys. He said that he was desirous of learning a trade and securing an education. Judge Jackson stated that he had but little faith in the reform results of the Plainfield institution and stated that he would attempt to secure a home on a farm in Henry county for the prisoner. If he failed in that course the court then announced that he would send McLearn to Plainfield.

The boy stated that his parents died when he was about five years of age. After that he lived with his uncle in Gettysburg, Va., until he was nine years of age. Then he left his uncle's home and had been wandering over the country ever since up to the time of his arrest.

At Knightstown he said that he met two boys, whose names he did not remember, and they suggested that he steal the horse and drive to Indianapolis where they would meet him. On his arrival in Indianapolis McLearn was immediately picked up by the police.

CARTHAGE BEATS LOCALS, 24 TO 23

Visitors Take Fast Basketball Game From Rushville by Margin of One Point.

FIRST DEFEAT ON HOME FLOOR

The Rushville high school basketball team was again defeated Saturday night. This time it was the Carthage team that turned the trick, the final score being 24 to 23. It was the first home game the locals have lost and Carthage was forced to the limit to win. From start to finish the score was close and at no time was there over a margin of two points between the teams. The first half ended with Carthage in the lead, 14 to 13.

The Rushville team played in tough luck and seemed unable to get together. Towards the last the locals came from behind but lost a chance to tie the score. The game was one of the best played on the local floor and was a hard blow to the Rushville team as it was confident of winning. The next game is at Richmond, January 3.

LONG LARRY McLEAN.

Long Larry McLean, who caught a game at Newcastle last summer for the Rushville team, may play with the Louisville club of the A. A. the coming season. Business Manager Neal is trying to start a trade. There are several clubs after Larry, although he was turned down by Indianapolis recently.

Evergreen Trees and Inflammable Draperies Cause Loss of Life and Property Each Year.

FOR A SANE OBSERVANCE

Use Electricity and Abestos Instead of Cotton and Combustible Decorations—Should Use Care.

Christmas and its joys should not be allowed to blind men to the ordinary rules of safety for the protection of the home and the lives of the family. And yet at holiday time parents who try to keep their children free from even the possibility of danger will install in the heart of their homes, where it is sure to be the center of attraction for the little ones, most the inflammable thing that ever enters it—the ordinary evergreen Christmas tree.

While it grows more dry and dangerous in the warm rooms they drape it with cotton for snow, tissue paper loops and tinsel for decorations, stick candies all over it, hand up toys that every child will grab for, and then trust to luck and providence for safety from a hazard that may prove as dangerous and as deadly as a rattlesnake or an open keg of gunpowder.

Just to play fair and take his share of the chances pater familias often surrounds himself with pillows, puts on cotton hair and whiskers and makes himself more of a menace than a help in case a fire should start. And fires do start, thousands of them every holiday season.

Firemen look forward to a run of Christmas tree fires just as they did to Fourth of July fire before the same Fourth movement put an end to them in many places. Why not a sane Christmas as well as a sane Fourth? Why should the children's festival be made the means of destroying hundreds of lives and thousands of homes?

Use little electric lights instead of candles, asbestos instead of cotton, non-combustible decorations instead of inflammables, and then watch the tree with the utmost care, especially when the children are around it. It's better to be safe than sorry, especially with the little ones at Christmas time.

HE EXPECTED TO GO FREE TODAY

Preparations Made to Get Freedom
For William Hopkins Pending
Appeal to Supreme Court.

HIS BOND IS FIXED AT $1,000

Judge Blair Says Insanity Alone is
Not Sufficient Grounds For
New Trial.

William Hopkins, sentenced to prison for two to fourteen years for shooting Lee Somers, and Saturday refused a new trial and clemency from the court, expected to be a free man by four o'clock this afternoon.

Directly after Judge Blair overruled the motion for a new trial in court Saturday afternoon and refused Hopkins a parole on suspended sentence, the attorneys for the defense prayed for an appeal to the supreme court of Indiana.

Before leaving for his home in Shelbyville Saturday night Judge Blair fixed the appeal bond at a thousand dollars but the bond had not arrived so that Hopkins could give it. It came this morning and Mrs. Hopkins came here after it. She returned to Carthage at noon where she expected to get bond for her husband. It was thought that she would arrive back here about three-thirty o'clock and that Hopkins would then be released.

In the motion for a new trial the defense gave five reasons why it should be granted: that Arthur Somers, brother of the prosecuting witness, had been allowed to testify to a conversation that should have been excluded from the evidence; that the court did not give the first five instructions asked by the defense; that it had been found since the verdict of the jury that Hopkins is insane, which was supported by an affidavit of his family physician, Dr. J. A. Sipe of Carthage, and others; that the verdict was contrary to the evidence and that the verdict was contrary to the law.

Judge Blair took up each one in returning the decision. In regard to the allegation that Arthur Somers, brother of the prosecuting witness, gave testimony that should not have been allowed, the court replied that it was brought out in rebuttal when the defense attempted to impeach his testimony. Judge Blair said this was upheld by many decisions and the defense admitted he was right.

As to the second allegation the court said he had covered the instructions asked by the defense more fully than they had demanded.

As regards the third, Judge Blair said the insanity of Hopkins alone would not be sufficient grounds for a new trial. It is a question, he declared, whether he had the mental power to comprehend the deed. He said he found no fault with the attorneys for the defense, because they had conducted the case in a very satisfactory manner. The fact that he was convicted, the court said, was no fault of his lawyers. He said the wife or sons of Hopkins might have made the new evidence known any time.

Judge Blair declared the question of clemency had given him great concern, because it was one which could not be pushed aside lightly. There are people, he said, who always want to help a man who is down, and added that he did not mean to criticize them.

"Notwithstanding this," he continued, "I believe the demand of society and law are such that he should pay the penalty. I realize it will be a hardship on his good wife, but he is asking the court to do something that he could have done."

WHAT HURT EGG MARKET

Cold Storage "Hen Fruit" Sold to Prevent a Loss.

Count on your fingers the number of months from April to January. Then look up the statutes and it will be found that in Indiana and other states food products can not be kept in cold storage longer, than nine months. "April eggs" are the instrument by which the women have demoralized the egg market in several large cities. The holders let go of them at prices that would make them move, rather than hold them till January first and probably have them destroyed by government authority.

PENNSYLVANIA TO INSTALL BLOCKS

System Will Be Placed on This Division
of Railway from Richmond to Columbus.

WILL HAVE 3 OPERATORS HERE

Local officials of the Pennsylvania railroad have received word that the company will install a block system on this division from Richmond to Columbus. The work of installing the block system will start about May 1st, 1913, and will be pushed rapidly until completed. Along with the block system will come other improvements. All the passing tracks will be lengthened and the one here will be extended 700 feet. The block system will mean three telegraph operators for this city, Falmouth, Manilla, Shelbyville and Flatrock.

Because of the extensive improvements planned for this division, it is taken here that the company is expecting to enlarge its business and this branch may become an important division. In installing the block system on its own accord the Pennsylvania is beating the railway commission to it, for as yet, the commission has issued no order.

Plan Celebration For Inmates
of Knightstown Home.

ARE 475 CHILDREN THERE NOW

Reports received by Mrs. Kate Scott, press correspondent for the Women's Relief Corps of Indiana, show that preparations are complete for a big celebration for the 475 orphan children at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home at Knightstown.

The committee in charge of Christmas arrangements is composed of Mrs. Belle W. Ephlin, state president, of Tangier; Mrs. Alice Pike of Danville; Mrs. Lucinda E. Taylor of Indianapolis and Mrs. Sibyl Parent of Tangier. Ninety dolls were obtained all of which were dressed by the women of Maj. Robert Anderson Corps No. 44 and Chapman Corps No. 1 of Indianapolis. The children were permitted to ask for Christmas gifts, and the committee was gratified to find that many of them asked for Bibles.

C. M. YOCUM'S XMAS SERMON

Refers to Sacrifice of Gary Newsboy
as Example of Christmas
Living—Death Not Needed.

Christmas living should be the custom every day in the year, according to the Rev. C. M. Yocum who preached a sermon on "Christmas Living and Christmas Giving" at the Main Street Christian church yesterday. A special program of appropriate music was given. Special sermons were preached at all of the other churches yesterday.

The case of the crippled newsboy of Gary who gave his life to save the life of a girl was referred to by the minister as an example of Christmas living. He recalled that the great steel mills stopped for an hour during the funeral, when they had been in motion ever since the factories started, and that every person in Gary mourned the loss of such a character.

"That sort of sacrifice should be emulated every day in the year," continued the pastor. "Just as deep and great sacrifices can be made with no loss of life. A mother goes into the valley of the shadow of death to bring another being to life, and although she may live, the deed is as noble as if she had died."

The Rev. Mr. Yocum reviewed the history of Christmas giving.

"Too often," he said, "Christmas giving is only a mere exchange, a bid for favor rather than an expression of good will; a disguise of greed, not an outpouring of generosity; a tribute to fashion, not an encouragement to friendliness."

"When the old custom was transferred to Christmas, it came into contact with an idea and an example which vitalized it, transformed it, ennobled it. The idea was unselfish interest in others; the example, the Wise Men and Christ."

The Rev. Mr. Yocum said the first Christmas gift was Jesus Christ. He said gifts should really be given, not bartered or exchanged as they do on court day in Kentucky. He pointed out gifts should be prompted by love because the greatest gift is not one which cost most but the one which carries the most love. It is not the gift of the lover, he said, but the love of the giver.

The gift shall represent the measure of the love, the pastor continued. He quoted: "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son," and pointed out that the word "so" expresses the measure of the gift. Christmas gifts, too, the minister declared, should be accompanied by yourself. Christ's greatest gift, he said, was not sight, hearing, speech or life, but himself.

The minister said Christmas comes but once a year, and that if Christmas living only comes as often it is not durable. He said it was impossible to reach all friends by a gift, but by right living, it is possible to reach all of them. He declared that one could not discharge his obligations with a gift and be done with it.

"In love and friendship small, steady payments on a gold basis are better than" immense promissory notes," was his closing thought.

The musical program, which was greatly appreciated, consisted of an anthem, a solo by Miss Helen Scott and a quartet number by Miss Edith Holden, Mrs. M. R. McDaniel, B. F. Miller and Jess Pugh.

FUND TO REACH THE $150 MARK

Offers of $5.00 and $5.25 Are Made on Two Dolls Which go to Highest Bidder.

A MINIATURE WALL STREET

Women and Girls Work Diligently Today Preparing Bundles For Delivery Tomorrow Afternoon.

Tonight is the last opportunity the managers of the fund have to make an appeal for automobiles to expedite the delivery tomorrow afternoon. The use of only two machines has been secured thus far. In order to deliver all of the packages by Christmas eve so that the children can open them at the proper time, it will be necessary to have at least six machines. It will not require more than an hour's time for any one machine if enough can be obtained. Owners are requested to call the Republican office in the morning.

The Daily Republican Santa Claus fund approached the $140 mark today. It will probably reach $150 by tomorrow night, when it will be closed. The managers of the fund have expended about that sum already, and there are liable to be minor expenses attached which have not been figured in the cost of delivering and preparing the bundles for delivery.

The sale of the two dolls dressed by Mrs. Harry Francis will realize $10.25 if not more. A bid of $5.00 has been made for one of the dolls by G. P. Hunt and John Young and $5.25 by Morris Winship is the highest offer that has been made for the other one.

The doll market ascended rapidly, point by point, Saturday night. Dora Betker started one of the beauties at $1.50 and Bob Tompkins made the same offer for the other one. The bidding soon got furious. Dora Betker never allowed one bid to remain long. If it began to get stale he raised it a quarter or a half.

At one point in the game Willard Amos raised it several cents over what Lon Stewart had bid. Some how or other Lon, who was up home in bed, eleven blocks away from the miniature Wall street, heard the news of Willard Amos' coup.

He didn't lie still in bed and let Mr. Amos feel secure in his success. He forsook the warm "hay" and hurried down. He raised Mr. Amos after the latter was home in bed. So the bidding went. Lewis Henry and Warren P. Elder made the game good by raising it a quarter or a half. The bidding will be held open until Xmas eve when the two dolls will be given to the ones making the highest offer so that they can be used for that which they were made.

A crowd of women and girls worked diligently today preparing the Christmas packages for delivery tomorrow afternoon. There were many visitors at the Toolen room to see the Christmas cheer that will be distributed tomorrow.

VAN DERRY TO BE PAROLED

Bank Robber Who "Peached" on Colorado One of 25.

Van Derry, who was the "outside" man in the New Palestine bank robbery in 1910, is one of the twenty-five Indiana prisoners who will be paroled Christmas day by Governor Marshall. One prisoner is to be pardoned. Derry was caught spending money lavishly in Indianapolis and "peached" on his comrade in crime, Cordia Martin, who is now a fugitive from justice. The prison superintendent recommended Derry's parole. His health is failing fast.

FARMER KICKED ON HEAD BY HORSE

William Curry of Near Morristown
Severely Injured by Two Blows
From Vicious Animal.

While returning to his place of residence on the Link Cole farm, one and one-half miles north of Morristown, at a few minutes past noon Saturday, William Curry, a prominent north Shelby county farmer, was kicked twice on the head by a horse which he was leading home, after having had it shod at Morristown, says the Shelbyville News. One blow struck on Mr. Curry's left jaw and the other took effect just below and back of the left ear.

The man was rendered unconscious and remained in that state until several minutes after was found by Charles Olinger, who was also returning home from Morristown. The victim bled considerably from the nose and ears, but it is not thought the injuries will prove fatal.

DATE AGREEABLE TO THE RAILROAD

L. E. & W. Sends Word it is Ready
For Hearing Before Judge
Wood Here Friday.

MERCHANTS URGED TO ATTEND

S. L. Trabue has received word that the date set for the hearing before Judge Woods of the State railroad commission—next Friday—of the petition for better service for the patrons of the local division of the L. E. & W. is agreeable to the railroad. The hearing will begin in the court house assembly room Friday morning at ten o'clock.

The Retail Merchants' association is urged to marshal its forces and prepare to make a good showing before the representative of the State commission. It is pointed out that it is of vital interest to the business men to get better service on the L. E. & W. so that people living along the road can visit Rushville. Whatever order the commission makes it now has the power to enforce.

HOLD-UP MAN CAUGHT.

John Buchanan, age twenty, was arrested after a chase through the country, for robbing the Liberty C. H. & D. railroad ticket office of $20. He is the only son of respected parents, and has borne a good reputation in Liberty.

CHICKEN THIEF IS IDENTIFIED

J. H. Spillman, Grocer at Milroy,
Recognizes One of Boys Who
Sold Stolen Property.

OTTIS HESS THEN CONFESSES

Implicates Hamer Foster, Who is Later
Captured at Harrison, Ohio,
—Makes Other Disclosures.

Ottis Hess and Hamer Foster, two Greensburg boys are under arrest for stealing 25 chickens, the property of Marvin McNew and selling them to James H. Spillman, a grocer at Milroy. Hess was taken to Milroy this morning and identified by Mr. Spillman as one of the men who sold him the chicken. Hess, who is only 18 years old, when identified by Spillman, confessed, and implicated Foster. Foster got as far as Harrison, Ohio, when arrested.

The chickens were stolen from Mr. McNew in Greensburg last Friday night and taken to Milroy where they were sold to Mr. Spillman. The two boys received almost $8 for the chickens. In the confession of Hess he says they stole some coal from the Big Four railway and sold it to Mr. McNew. On this visit to his home they discovered the chickens and resolved to steal them, which they did that night.

The boys attempted to escape when they learned that the stolen property had been identified in Milroy. Hess was captured in Greensburg and Foster was taken in Harrison. Policeman Johnson of the Greensburg force went there this afternoon to return him to Greensburg. Foster has a police record in Greensburg having served a term in the Boys' School at Plainfield but as far as is known this is Hess' first offense.

The owner of the chickens, Mr. McNew, identified his fowls in a rather peculiar manner. They responded to his call of "babies, babies" instead of the usual "chickie." Mr. Spillman is in no way to blame for the purchase of the stolen chickens and will probably lose the amount paid.

Pittsburgh.

Porter Wiggins, of near Knightstown, has sold his three year old driving colt to James Neale, of Pittsburgh, Pa., says the Newcastle Times. This colt won the silver cup at the Pendleton horse show. It was exhibited at four horse shows, and won eight ribbons. At the Rushville show, which is regarded as one of the best in the state, he won three ribbons in three entries. This colt was sired by Pay Bells, a well-known great breeding stallion and race horse owned by Ross Hunt of Maxwell.

CAUGHT FINGERS IN SAW.

Frank Jones, employed at the Case mill, caught the first and second fingers of his right hand in a saw this morning and it was necessary to amputate them at the first joint. The injury while quite painful will not be serious.

NO PAPER WEDNESDAY.

According to the annual custom of the Republican Company, the Daily Republican will not be issued from the presses next Wednesday, Christmas day, so as to allow the employees of the office a holiday.

Rome, Dec. 23.—Roland Garros, the French aviator, completed his overseas flight from Tunis to Rome Sunday afternoon. A great crowd cheered Garros enthusiastically as he completed his flight. He started for Paris last evening.

MOVEMENT TO FREE THE APPLE MARKET

Housewives' League Entering On New Campaign.

New York, Dec. 23.—The Housewives' League will start a crusade this week, says Mrs. Julia Heath, national president of the league, having for its object the unloading of the market of apples that are being held in great quantities for an increase in prices.

"The apple market is going to move, and it's going to move rapidly," Mrs. Heath said, "and if the dealers do not unload the league will be obliged to enter into competition with apples of its own."

"In a western city recently ten carloads of apples were destroyed because of the over supply. Speculators are not permitting apples to reach the consumers in any great quantities, and everything is being done to keep up the price."

Mrs. Heath said that one of the principal difficulties encountered in getting foodstuffs out of the storehouses is the fact that although shippers are desirous of selling, the commission men refuse to handle their stock. This applies to eggs as well as apples.

"One egg shipper," continued Mrs. Heath, "said to me: 'The commission man is like the dog in the manger—he won't take the eggs from me and he won't let you have them.'"

SHAKEN AGAIN

Messina Suffers Recurrence of Violent Earthquake Shock.

Messina, Dec. 23.—There was a violent earthquake here and at Reggio Di Calabria at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The people are panic-stricken and are camping outdoors. The shock was very severe at Reggio, which, if it had been rebuilt after the last great earthquake, would probably be now in ruins, but the inhabitants are still living in the temporary wooden huts and were uninjured.

Had to Shoot Him Down.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 23.—Trying to escape from a sheriff's posse, seeking him for shooting and fatally wounding his wife and her woman friend, Dominick Gyr, a dairyman, barricaded himself in his home, five miles from here, and was not taken until he was fatally wounded. He lived only a few minutes. He had gone home earlier in the day, quarreled with and shot his wife and the friend, Mrs. Murray Clarke, who sought to intercede.

Epidemic Depopulating Town.

Midville, Ga., Dec. 23.—With thirteen already dead and a number of other cases now being treated for cerebro-spinal meningitis, the people of this city are flying panic-stricken to other sections of Georgia. Practically all the stores in the town are closed, and it is charged that even physicians have deserted their posts and started for other cities.

Deadly Fumes From Stove.

Lebanon, Ind., Dec. 23.—Mrs. Margaret Leach, aged sixty-two, was asphyxiated by fumes from a baseburner at her home near the Hendricks county line. A sister, Mrs. John Barnett of Kansas, who was visiting at the home, nearly lost her life.

There is a report that severe earthquake shocks have been felt in Maryland.

URGES LAWS FOR WOMEN WORKERS

State Factory Inspector Appeals to Legislature.

DO WE LACK IN CHIVALRY?

"The Manhood of Our State," Says Mr. Walsh, "Must Put Forth Its Strong Arm in Defense of the Women or Acknowledge That the Chivalrous Characteristics of Former Days Do Not Now Endure."

Indianapolis, Dec. 23.—John J. Walsh, state factory inspector, is in favor of establishing a woman's department in connection with the state bureau of inspection, to consist of at least two women inspectors, who would look after the welfare of the 51,000 women and girls employed in Indiana factories. Mr. Walsh also strongly urges the passage of a law limiting the hours of labor for women to eight a day.

"The time has arrived when the manhood of our state must put forth its strong arm in defense of the women, or by their lack of action acknowledge the sad fact that the chivalrous characteristics of former days do not now endure," says Mr. Walsh in his annual report. "The enactment of laws that will insure the proper respect and appreciation for the women workers of Indiana constitutes the most important duty that can possibly confront the members of the legislature of 1913."

Mr. Walsh recommends the passage of an adequate theater law, the employment of a sanitary engineer and the employment of additional deputies. With the present limited number of deputies it is impossible to inspect factories and buildings more than once a year. There are 342,136 persons employed in Indiana industries, according to reports made to Mr. Walsh. During the year inspectors ordered the erection of 698 fire escapes and more than half of them have already been installed.

MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY

Congress Will Be Asked to Pass Act Governing Hoosier's Case.

Richmond, Ind., Dec. 23.—Eugene Prince twenty-two years old, now living in this city, is a man without a country, and, in the hope of getting citizenship for the young man, the house of representatives committee on immigration and naturalization at Washington has presented a resolution to congress covering the case.

Prince's grandfather was the representative of an American firm in Russia during the later years of his life and himself was an American citizen. His son, young Prince's father, was born in Russia and is also an American citizen, but the father has never resided in America.

Under the law of the United States American citizenship does not descend to the children of an American citizen who never resided in the United States. For this reason Prince is not an American. On the other hand, the Russian law, under the state of facts, will not grant citizenship to Prince, and when he left Russia a year ago to come to America he could not get a regular passport and a special permit had to be obtained for him through diplomatic circles.

He is now in the employ of the International Harvester company in this country, and unless congress makes him a citizen by special act he cannot travel between America and Russia, as his employers desire.

Deed of a Despondent Woman.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 23.—Despondent on account of ill health, Mrs. Venable Sweet, thirty-five years old, swallowed three ounces of carbolic acid, and when her husband returned home he found her dead. Their two-year-old son was lying at the mother's head badly burned and probably will die. The attending physician said that it appears that the mother poured the acid down her baby's throat.

Counterfeiters at Work.

Anderson, Ind., Dec. 23.—Counterfeit money has been circulated here to a great extent and the police have warned merchants to carefully scrutinize quarters and half dollars taken in. It is the opinion of the police that the work of manufacturing the coin and of passing it is being done by local talent.

It Was a Mistrial.

Richmond, Ind., Dec. 23.—The jury in the case against Jack Lewis, an actor, charged with assault upon a twelve-year-old girl, disagreed after nineteen hours' deliberation and was discharged. The second hearing has been set for Dec. 26.

Christmas Clemency Extended.

Indianapolis, Dec. 23.—Governor Marshall has pardoned one man held in the Indiana reformatory and has granted paroles to twelve other prisoners in the reformatory and the state prison.

Sudden Death of Editor.

Washington, Ind., Dec. 23.—Stephen Belding, political editor of the Washington Democrat, died suddenly in his room in a local hotel. Death is believed to have been due to an aneurysm.

Escalloped Oysters for Xmas Should Not Be a Pasty Mess

Escalloped oysters for the Christmas dinner should not be a pasty mess. Do not use too soft bread in crumbling them nor too much liquid. Butter over each layer and a few tablespoonfuls of cream poured in at the last are enough.

The shallow earthenware dish that holds not more than two layers of oysters makes a better scallop than the deep, old fashioned pudding dish. If more than one panful is needed there can be a second plateful in the oven ready to be slipped into the silver rim.

Individual scallop dishes, or four or five large oyster shells filled with oysters and covered with bread crumbs and butter, are preferred by many.

When one has been made a present of a barrel or a keg of oysters do not omit the opportunity to give an oyster roast. Invite guests that you know well and also make sure they eat oysters.

Make almost the entire supper of the bivalve. Grapefruit or bouillabaisse can be served first. Have oysters roasted in kitchen and brought in when the shells half opened.

Before each plate have melted butter, an oyster fork, salt and pepper, and an oyster knife for opening the shells.

Serve with the oysters plenty of thin buttered bread, peppercorn, small Parker House rolls and French fried or Saratoga potatoes. Coffee can be served with the supper, or later.

Have a light salad endive or crisp lettuce, with cheese breads. The dessert after so filling a meal should not be rich. Ginger or mint ice in sherbet glasses is refreshing.

Do not make the mistake of serving large oysters raw at a woman's luncheon. Most women prefer blue points or cherry stones. Raw oysters are more palatable on their own shell than on handsome oyster plates. They must be thoroughly chilled, and preferably should rest on a bed of shaved ice. The lemon with raw oysters should be cut in quarters in the rind. Or in the center of the shell circle have half a lemon with the center partly filled with horseradish.

It is more fashionable now to serve oyster cocktails in the shells with a small slender glass of the sauce in the center of each plate.

Fried oysters for home use are more delicate when done in bread crumbs than in cracker crumbs. They should only be dipped once in the egg and crumbs, otherwise they are too stiff and crusty. Butter is better frying medium than deep fat.

For creamed oysters do not cook them too long in the mixture or they will be tough. The edges should just shrivel. These can be served in ramekins or pate shells, and they are excellent when creamed in a chafing dish.

When oysters are left over from stews or creamed mixtures they can be chopped and used as salad or croquette. For the former the eye must be removed, and it is better to do so for any cooking where the whole oyster is not essential.

MINUTE "MOVIES" OF THE NEWS RIGHT OFF THE REEL

With unusual candor a woman's organization in Connecticut has been named the Nut club.

There is an unlimited field for the surgical science that has just provided a Dickinson college freshman with an entirely new face.

No lesson is to be learned from the death in Dublin workhouse of Mickey Smith, aged 116. He smoked constantly and drank all he could get.

Chicago man has invented a table knife the blade of which cannot be inserted in the mouth. Local capitalists have refused to finance a company for him.

Awakened by a black bear in her barnyard, a widow living near Waukegan mountain, in New Jersey, went out and killed the brute with a pitchfork.

A Michigan man owns a shepherd dog whose services in herding sheep he values at $5 a day. To protect the dog's feet the owner provides expensive shoes.

The junk pile for one more old tradition. Board of review of the National Trotting association decides that the age of a horse cannot be determined from his teeth.

If invited to eats, take Raymond Dyspepsia Tablets after, then before going to bed take a Raymond Nerve and Liver Pill and you'll feel fine next day. Hargrove & Mullin guarantee them. 232112.

FURNESS LINER SPRUNG A LEAK

Only Four Survivors of Ocean Tragedy.

SLOW IN MANNING BOATS

Unable to Make Headway in the Heavy Sea, the Liner Florence, Halifax to Liverpool, Swamped Off Cape Race While Struggling to Make Her Way Back to Shore After Abandoning the Pumps as Useless.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—Near Cape Race the Furness liner Florence was wrecked and twenty-two sailors, including the captain, drowned. The Florence was bound from Halifax to St. Johns, N. F., and after touching there was to have proceeded to Liverpool. She put out from Halifax in rough weather and had sprung a leak before reaching Cape Race, making enough water to cause her to labor in the heavy seas encountered, but no danger was anticipated, Captain Barr being of the opinion, so the survivors state, that on St. Johns being reached the damage could be speedily repaired.

The seas became more heavy and the Florence showed a tendency to become unmanageable, but the effort to round Cape Race and make for St. Johns was the only course open to the captain, as it would have been unsafe to head the steamer about in view of the heavy cross seas and her damaged condition.

The water in the holds gained steadily in spite of all the pumps could do, and finally the water made such headway that it was seen the vessel could not last much longer and Captain Barr ordered the lifeboats to be lowered after being hastily provisioned. One lifeboat was launched in which were the second mate and four other sailors. The second mate noticed an enormous wave coming and cast adrift just in time to avoid being pooped, after which he was driven by the force of the storm away from the vessel. The wave in question broke right over the Florence, sweeping her from stem to stern, and the survivors think some must have been washed overboard, for they distinctly heard a loud cry above the raging of the storm. No attempt was made as far as they could see to launch a second boat. The Florence rapidly settled and within half an hour foundered. The boat with the survivors was kept head-on to the wind and sea, the men in her remaining adrift for two days, but with no idea as to their whereabouts. Early Sunday morning they were sighted by chance by a small steamer bound for St. Johns, and were brought to that port in an exhausted condition and taken to the local hospital, where every attention is being paid them.

The remainder of the crew, twenty-two in all, including the captain, have, it is not doubted, all been lost. The Florence carried a sufficient number of lifeboats to have accommodated all had they been launched before the heavy sea struck her, but she had no wireless apparatus installed, so was unable to communicate her peril to the signal station at Cape Race, or help might have been sent before it was too late. There were no passengers on board.

LED TO ARREST

Curran Committee Holds Two Men Charged With Bribery.

New York, Dec. 23.—David Maier and Charles Duvelier, two men who were arrested by the Curran committee staff on charges of bribing a witness subpoenaed before the grand jury, were held in $7,500 bail each. There are rumors afloat that the investigators had discovered a downtown clearing house for the operators of questionable resorts, or at least a meeting room for those engaged in this business.

District Attorney Whitman and his men are pretty actively engaged just at present in looking up some of this alleged vice graft with particular attention to its ultimate receivers.

Revolution on Mount Athos.

Athens Dec. 23.—Queen Olga intends to pay a visit to the twenty-one monasteries on Mount Athos. "This will break the rule forbidding a woman to set foot on the holy mountain, which has been observed for 1,500 years. The chances of war brought the peninsula of Chalcidice into the possession of the Greek troops, and the monks who inhabit the mountain are now Greek subjects. The announcement that the king and queen of the Hellenes proposed to visit them caused a flutter among the monks and they hurriedly summoned the council, which decided that they would be obliged to alter their statutes in order to welcome their queen.

Stanton Fixing to Celebrate.

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 23.—Governor and Mrs. Wilson will leave Princeton Dec. 27 for Staunton, Va., where on the following day the citizens are to celebrate his fifty-sixth birthday. The governor expects to occupy the very room where he was born in the manse of the First Presbyterian church, his father at that time having been pastor of this church.

BANS RED SCHOOLHOUSES.

Member of Chicago Board Says They Make Babies Cross.

Climbing ivy and other vines are to be substituted for red paint on the Chicago school buildings if a suggestion of William Rothmann, one of the members of the board of education, is followed out. An attempt at renewal of a five year custom to paint the buildings red was vigorously opposed by Rothmann, who succeeded in staying the proposed action of the board.

"This idea of painting schoolhouses red every five years is a bad one," said Mr. Rothmann. "The color strikes you in the face two blocks away. It makes the babies in the neighborhood so cross no one can sleep at night."

"We should plant ivy and other vines and the buildings will be covered by nature in a few years. This will eliminate the cost of painting and will be more beautiful than any paint as well as acting advantageously on the minds of children."

ARABIAN NIGHTS' TREASURE HOUSE

The Khazna at Constantinople Holds Precious Jewels.

GOLD DIVANS SET WITH GEMS

Dr. Young, Permitted to Visit the Repository, Says There Were Precious Stones Enough in Sight to Buy the World's Largest Navy—New Testament Manuscripts in St. Sophia.

The Rev. Dr. Edward S. Young of Brooklyn, who visited the sultan's treasure house, gives a description of some of the contents that rivals an "Arabian Nights" dream of wealth and tells what the fall of Constantinople might mean to the world at large.

"Constantinople's fall would mean," said he, "the opening up of unparalleled treasures of precious articles, archaeological stores and memorials of Christianity. By an irade of the sultan we were admitted to the Khazna and saw jewelry enough to buy, I suppose, the world's largest navy. "There were enormous pearls and rubies and other gems believed to be the biggest known to man. A divan there taken by Selim I. from the Shah of Persia is of beaten gold and set with thousands upon thousands of pearls, emeralds and rubies, while in the gallery of the same room is a divan incomparably more exquisite and priceless.

Mehrad's Jeweled Scabbard.

"When Christian nations were asking for reimbursements of property lost to our missionary stations at the time of massacres of Armenians Abdul Hamid could have taken the scabbard of the scimitar of Mehrad IV. and paid the whole bill with the diamonds on it, and the relic would not have been missed from the piles of like riches in the Khazna.

"Who can guess the value to students of the monuments and tombs and other antiquities in the museum at Seraglio Point? Scholars have not yet been given free access to these, which appear to me the choicest finds of all the expeditions.

"There is nothing on earth fit to be mentioned alongside of the collection of sarcophagi you there gaze upon, the most gorgeous being spoken of as that of Alexander the Great.

"You read on the lid that rested above Emperor Tabnith of Sidon this inscription: 'If thou openest my coffin and disturbest me, mayest thou have no posterity among the living and no resting place among the dead.' Then you look inside the glass case behind and behold Tabnith's embalmed body.

Christian Antiquity in St. Sophia.

"And what shall I say of the sacred remains of Christian antiquity to be found in the Church of St. Sophia, which was dedicated 1375 years ago the 26th of this December? Out of it passed the Christian congregation, the emperor and the dignitaries on May 28, 1453, the conqueror Mohammed II then taking possession and holding the congregation captives.

"Will the students not find in its walls or cloisters or foundations one of the fifty manuscripts of the New Testament and Septuagint made by skillful calligraphists at the order of Constantine the Great? This Church of St. Sophia was the cathedral church of eastern Christendom—yes, of the whole of the then Christendom—and whatever was cherished most of Christian memorials was brought to its mighty inclosure.

"The fall of Constantinople would mean a new chance for the Bible to defeat the Koran. The Christians of the Holy Oriental Orthodox Apostolic Catholic Greek church do translate its official title comprise the majority of the soldiers in the ranks of the allies. The war is between Christians and Moslems, and the capitulation of the capital of Mohammedanism, seat of the sheik ul Islam, would lower the prestige of the false prophet throughout the regions where, taking the three continents, he has some 200,000 followers."

WANT WHITE HOUSE RENAMED

One Set of Historians Claim Name Is a British Slur.

A heated discussion is raging before the Columbia Historical Society of Washington over the common use of the title "White House" for the residence of the president of the United States. One set of delvers into history declare that the title is one of contempt bestowed on the historic mansion by the victorious British shortly after they partially burned it in the war of 1812.

Others maintain that the name was given the building in honor of Mrs. Martha Washington, whose girlhood home on the York river in Virginia bore it. Already the society is divided into two camps and an embryonic movement to petition for the changing of the name of the building is bitterly opposed by the "pro-white houses," as they have been designated.

Ford's Theater to Be Razed.

The old Ford theater building, in which President Lincoln was shot by John Wilkes Booth in 1865, will be razed in the near future. The theater was taken over by the government after the shooting of President Lincoln and is now used for offices.

GUEST OF KING AT FIRST BATTLE

Nicholas Tipped Moses Hostilities Were About to Begin.

SAW OPENING GUN FIRED

Diplomat, Returning Home, Gives Graphic Description of the Montenegrine Victory at Detich, Where the Great Struggle Began, and Tells of Allies' Preparedness For Long Fight.

C. H. Moses of Concord, N. H., returning United States minister to Greece and Montenegro, is the first eyewitness of the battles between the allies and the Turks to bring back to this country graphic pictures of the grim precision of modern warfare. He saw the first gun of the war fired and the first defeat of the sultan's fighting men, having been practically the guest of King Nicholas.

"The attack of the allies upon Turkey was absolutely prearranged," he said. "Every foot of the campaign and the part that each of the little powers was to play in tackling their giant neighbor and common enemy were planned last May. At that time a secret meeting of the military strategists of Montenegro, Serbia, Greece and Bulgaria was held in a little town in Dalmatia. Accurate information as to the strength and degree of preparedness of the Turks was in the possession of these strategists. They knew just when and where to strike.

Knew War Was Inevitable.

"I witnessed the mobilization of the Greeks at Athens and then the mobilization of the Montenegrins at Cetinje, the capital of Montenegro. Everything went as smoothly as a well oiled machine, and even while the big European powers were saying peace could be maintained the leaders of the various little nations knew war was as inevitable as the rising of the sun, because it had been determined upon.

"Two days before the Montenegrins opened hostilities King Nicholas, the much beloved monarch of the little state, called me to an audience and gave me an advance tip.

"If you will go to Detich," said he, naming a little Turkish town just across the border from Montenegro, at 8 o'clock next Wednesday morning you will see the first gun of a victorious war fired."

"I followed his advice and promptly at the dot of 8 a. m. a big piece of field ordnance belched a solid shot across the valley to the fortifications behind the Turkish town. The war was on.

"Instantly all the heavy cannon that the Montenegrins had secretly moved across the frontier during the night and placed in positions previously selected opened up on the fortifications and the Turkish guns replied. I stood back with the staff of General Martinovich, the commander of the Montenegrin army, and watched the action through field glasses.

Watching the First Battle.

"It was grim. It was terrible. But there was something tremendously inspiring in the sight of the two columns of Montenegrins moving forward with the precision of a football squad advancing the ball. Under cover of the heavy artillery firing the two columns pushed boldly up the heights toward the fortifications, deploying as they went, and soon the roar of volley firing supplied a steady undertone to the booming of the heavy guns.

"I could see the reading and smashing of the Turkish fortifications under the exploding shells from the Montenegrins' guns; watched the long line of white cottonball puffs along the parapets where the red crescent flag waved; followed the detached blocks of men clambering up the heights, inexorably closing in on the doomed fortress.

"Finally, after about five hours of fighting, there was a faint cheer borne across the valley, even above the roar of guns, and I saw the Montenegrins sweep forward in the final dash up the slope to the parapets of the fort itself. Soon it was all over. The red flag waved and dropped, and in its place rose the flag of little Montenegro, while bugles saluted it."

Montenegrins Wonderful Fighters.

Mr. Moses said he witnessed two other minor engagements at Tuzi and Tepchamak and saw the preliminary skirmishes of the siege of Scutari.

"The Montenegrins are born fighters," said the retiring minister. "Physically they are such magnificent men that anybody under six feet in height is counted a dwarf. General Martinovich, the commander, is the one great dynamo of the country—commander, secretary of state, treasurer and everything else combined. He is a marvel.

"The first victories over the Turks were expected by the allies, but it has been a great surprise to them as well as to the European observers that the Turks have not recovered from their initial reverses. The allies expected grim resistance, yet they have just begun to meet it at the doors of Constantinople itself."

Now the Stingless Bee.

Dr. J. A. Nelson, the bee expert of the department of agriculture, has discovered a "stingless" bee, which, however, being deprived of the bitterness of its sting, also lacks the sweetness of honey-making.

The Fact That We Are Selling the Most of the Storm Buggies This Year

is easily accounted for. It is no trouble to sell a buggy if you have the best buggy, the best price, and the best terms. We claim these three points of advantage but are willing to leave the matter to you to decide whether or not our claim is a just one. We believe that you will agree with us on this decision if you will take the time to come in and see our stock of storm buggies. We also believe that if we can convince you of the fact that we can give you the best buggy at the best price and on the best terms, and you want a Storm Buggy that we can sell you what you want. Remember our buggies are different in style as well as quality and if you buy one of them, you will be satisfied with it.

Fresh Air in Winter.

In a recent announcement by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis was included this statement: "Fresh air is probably the world's best medicine, not only in the treatment of disease but of its prevention. Not one person in one hundred gets enough fresh air at his work, at his rest or in his sleep."

It is particularly well to remind yourself of the value of fresh air now, at the coming of colder weather. The season of the year is approaching when remarks about "What are you trying to do, warm the whole outside?" are in order, both from the fearsome landladies and from economical husbands.

But it is a whole lot better to warm a little of "all outdoors" than to go without fresh air. Gas bills are cheaper than doctor bills, after all, and less headache accompanies their payment.

In one of the boroughs of London the city has taken upon itself the duty of requiring all rooms used for sleeping purposes to be properly ventilated. It is plain that such a requirement will be readily acceded to in summer, but in winter there will be trouble. So many people seem to have the idea that cold air means fresh air. On that theory in winter a window need never be opened. A fire could simply be turned off until the temperature dropped to the "fresh" degree.

People are healthier, as a whole, in May, June and July, and it is, because they get plenty of fresh air. Don't forget this medicine of nature may be obtained just as easily in December as in June and that it is worth just as much to you and your family.

Farmers' Parcels Post.

Before long, farmers will be delivered food products direct to town customers by parcels post.

Take the case of a farmer living 10 miles from this city. He, of course, realizes that many people would like to buy eggs, fruits, butter, vegetables, etc., direct from the farms. But the time of himself or a capable man, delivering such products from door to door, with horse or automobile, would be worth at least $4 to $5 a day.

Add to this the loss to his business from his absence. Probably altogether it would cost him at least $10 a day.

The parcels post would permit a farmer to mail 20 five pounds packages to customers in this town for $3.40. Lighter packages would be much less. In cases where he lives on a rural route, he could mail them to the town where the route starts for $1.80. His customers will pay the postage and advertising bills to get fresh goods and save middlemen's profit.

The way to connect with the people who want this service is to advertise in the local paper. A small notice in the classified columns of this newspaper will soon give a farmer a list of customers for such products as can be delivered by the parcels post, up to 11 pounds weight.

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture has lived in Washington for more than forty years. The shrewdest politicians in the land concede this to be a remarkable feat.

Twenty-five billions capital controlled by 189 men, so the Pajo committee learns, and some of the 189 are supposed to feel that they have money enough to live on comfortably.

Not merely did J. P. Morgan have to wait an hour to testify at Washington, but President Taft was not waiting at the railroad station to welcome him to the Capitol.

President-elect Wilson says he will not shake hands with all the people who come to Washington, but he made no rash statement like that before election.

CUFF BUTTONS FOR SAM.

As a token of their esteem and their appreciation of his services during the recent campaign, the county candidates on the Democratic ticket late Saturday afternoon presented Samuel L. Trabue, their county chairman, with a pair of diamond-studded cuff buttons. The committee appointed to make the presentation speech consisted of Voorhees Cavitt, sheriff-elect; Cary Jackson, State senator-elect and Edson L. Aiken, commissioner-elect. Mr. Jackson was the spokesman of the committee and made the presentation speech. Mr. Trabue says that he appreciates the gift very deeply, not so much for the worth of it as for the meaning of it. And he's wearing them every day.

WELL KNOWN AS
POULTRY JUDGE

S. B. Lane, Age 60, Who Had National Reputation, Expires at Home in Spiceland.

GRIPPE AND HEART TROUBLE

Fatal Illness Attacks Him While on Way to Chicago to Act as a Judge.

Samuel B. Lane, age 60, one of Spiceland's most prominent citizens, treasurer of the school board and known all through the middle west as an expert chicken judge and fancier, is dead at his home there following a week's illness with gripple and heart trouble.

Mr. Lane took sick a week ago Friday while he was on the train going to Chicago from Princeton, Ill., where he had been judging a chicken show. He was cared for the trainmen and passengers as well as possible until the train reached Chicago, when he was taken to a hospital.

Hospital physicians stated that he was suffering from the grip and found that his heart's action was weak and advised him to remain in Chicago a few days, until he was in a fit condition to travel. However, Mr. Lane caught the evening train for Newcastle, arriving there at 4 o'clock Saturday morning. He took the first T. H. I & E. car for Spiceland.

As soon as he reached home he was forced to take to his bed and had been gradually growing worse since that time. For the last two days his heart action has been so weak that it has been almost impossible to distinguish any pulse. He never lost consciousness and passed away very peacefully.

Mr. Lane is survived by his wife, eight daughters, Mrs. Joseph Benson of Indianapolis, Mrs. Emma Cline, New Castle; Mrs. W. A. Wake of Texas, Misses Annie Lane of Spiceland and Mrs. Thomas Gibson, Mrs. Clarence Reser and Mrs. Henry Reser of Montana, and three sons, Arlo of Xenia, Ohio, and Russell and Chester of Montana.

The funeral will be held at the M. E. church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, with Rev. Alice Lawrence of New Castle in charge. Interment will take place at the Spiceland cemetery.

IRON LID BIFFS
HIM IN THE NOSE

Indiana University Student is Hurt When he Lights Match Near Gas Generator.

ACCIDENT NEAR FAIRVIEW

An explosion of acetylene gas in the cellar at the Grant Hinchman home, two and one-half miles southeast of Fairview, last evening, did serious injury to Clarence Hinchman, who was hit in the face by the flying lid from the generator, says the Connersville News of Saturday evening.

The young man, who is twenty-one years of age, and a student in the medical class in Indiana University, had arrived home for Christmas only a few minutes before the accident occurred. The lights in the house, supplied by the apparatus in the cellar, grew weak and the young man went down intending to correct the difficulty. He removed the lid of the generator, a heavy disc of iron, and, in the course of his work, lighted a match to see better. There was enough gas in the enclosed space of the generator to cause a small explosion. The heavy lid, which was in the path of the expanding gas, was shot upward with sudden power, and struck Mr. Hinchman on the forehead and along the right side of the nose, in the region of the eye. The bridge of the nose was fairly beaten in by the blow, and the eye shared in the injury, but received no hurt that will be lasting.

STOCKMEN WILL MEET AT COURSE

Various Conventions Will Take Place During Farmers' Meetings at Purdue University.

STOCK JUDGING CLASSES ON

Noted Experts on Stock Will Give Lectures During Course Jan. 14, 15 and 16.

A most instructive part of the annual Farmers' Short Course at Purdue University promises to be the various stockmen's conventions which will meet at that time. The Indiana Sheep Breeders' and Feeders' Associations have a most interesting program scheduled for Tuesday, January 14, 1913. Sir George Cavan, of International reputation as a sheep breeder and importer will speak on the subject, "An English Sheep Farm in America." Prof. F. G. King will lecture on "Lamb Feeding for the Market," and Prof. H. L. Allen on "Food and Clothing—Mutton and Wool."

Wednesday evening, January 15th will be given over to the annual meetings of the Indiana Hereford Breeders' Association, Indiana Shorthorn Breeders' Association, and Indiana Angus Breeders' Association for each of which meetings a most interesting program has been arranged. On this same evening a joint association reception will be held in the Memorial Gymnasium for all attending farmers.

On Thursday, January 16, the annual meeting of the Indiana Live Stock Breeders' Association will be held. In the forenoon, Secretary D. O. Thompson will address the meeting upon the subject "More Live Stock for Indiana," and the principal address of the afternoon will be delivered by Prof. D. H. Otis of the Department of Farm Management of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture, upon the subject, "The Farmer as a Business Manager."

All the men in attendance will be given opportunity to attend the stock judging classes held throughout the week by the Animal Husbandry Department of the School of Agriculture.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend all of these sessions of the various live stock men of Indiana.

BE CAREFUL.

The mails are overburdened with packages and letters containing Christmas presents. Every sender expects speedy transportation and prompt delivery. It will greatly aid the postal employees in handling mail if the person sending a package or letter will see to it that the name of the addressee, the street and number, when possible, the city or town, and the state, are plainly written thereon with ink. Also that the return address, showing who it is from, appears in the upper left hand corner. If everybody will observe this admonition the number of undelivered packages and letters will be reduced to the minimum.

COURT CALENDAR IS LOADED DOWN

Number of Cases Set For February

Term Next Year is Larger Than Usual.

ONLY TWO CRIMINAL CASES

"Oodles" of Judgments Returned by

Judge Blair in Closing up Last

Term's Business.

The calendar for the February term of court is almost filled with cases. The number is larger than usual. Few of them are of any special interest. Only two State cases are set for trial; that against Mrs. Sarah Richey for the theft of several turkeys from Mrs. Lot Holman and the charge of assault and battery against John Ryan, a former road supervisor, who is charged in a grand jury indictment with attacking the trustee of Richland township.

Judge Blair returned many decisions late Saturday afternoon just before leaving for his home in Shelbyville. A number of quiet title and partition suits were settled.

In the quiet title suit of Omer B. Green against Thomas Roberts and others, seventeen defendants defaulted and Wallace Morgan was appointed special guardian for each of them. He filed an answer and finding and judgment was returned for the plaintiff, quieting the title to the property in question.

The final report of the commissioner was approved in the partition suit of William F. Matney and others against Mary McNair and others.

Finding and judgment was returned for the plaintiff in the partition suit of John F. Kirk against Mary E. Kirk.

Judgment on the verdict of the jury for the defendant in the case of Frank Wilson against Edward Frazee for $1,200 damages was returned by Judge Blair.

Finding and judgment for the plaintiffs for $161, principal and interest, was returned in the case of the directors of the Combination Sale company against John F. Kirk. The directors alleged $157.20 was due them for a horse sold to Mr. Kirk at a combination sale. Kirk's defense was that the horse was moon-eyed and in other ways was not what it was represented to be. The evidence was heard Saturday.

The case of Lawrence L. Allen against Jesse L. Hinton, James McDaniel and Charles O. Kennedy on a note, and for attachment and garnishment, was dismissed by agreement of the parties and the costs were adjudged against Hinton.

Judgment on the verdict of the jury in the sum of $1,323 was allowed in the claim of Lola Souther against Robert S. Longfellow, administrator of the estate of J. F. Souther.

In the case where exceptions to the final report of the commissioners were filed by Rebecca Newkirk, executor of the estate of William R. Newkirk, deceased, against Melvina J. Harrison and Clara Ann Gartin, finding and judgment was for the plaintiff.

The restraining order as to personal property was released in the divorce case of Fannie Brookbank against Ira W. Brookbank. Mrs. Brookbank asks $7,000 alimony. A restraining order was issued shortly after the complaint was filed to restrain the husband from disposing of any of his personal property of real estate.

Finding for the defendant was returned in the case of Frank Thompson against Warren P. Elder in proceedings supplementary to execution. The evidence was heard Saturday. The judge found that the defendant has no property subject to execution.

The following is the court calendar for the February term next year:

Feb. 3—Calling dockets and issues. Oldham vs. Carr.

SOCIETY NEWS

Wallace Deer, was pleasantly surprised Saturday afternoon at his home in North Morgan street by a number of his young friends, the occasion being his eighth birthday. Sunday evening a birthday dinner was served in his honor.

Many compliments have been paid Mrs. May W. Duman for the sweet thought expressed in the Christmas greeting given to her class at its meeting at the Graham school building Saturday afternoon. It follows in full:

"Blessed be the season which brings a message of peace, the season which tells us to forgive, which teaches us tolerance and patience, which opens our eyes to the foolishness of anger, the weakness of remembering injuries, the littleness of nursing our wrath to keep it warm.

"Blessed be the season which brings a message of good-will, the season which bids us think well of all mankind, which counsels us to try to understand acts and conditions of mind of which we ourselves have had no experience, the season which bids us be generous, and yet to value less the things that may be bargained for and bought than the things which are above prices, fine friendship, loyal love, the regard that is not based on personal interest or advantage.

"Blessed be the season which recalls the entire song the angels sang. They sang not only of the birth in the city of David of a Saviour who is Christ the Lord, but they chanted the noblest song of all—
Glory to God the great Giver.
Glory to God in the Highest."

A wedding of interest in Indianapolis, Rushville and Evansville was solemnized Saturday evening at the home of Miss Grace Kiechle in Evansville, the bride being Miss Ruth Saffold Harrison, daughter of Mrs. Pauline Harrison, and the bridegroom, Myron R. Green of Indianapolis, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Green of this city.

The appointments were in pink and green and all the rooms were trimmed elaborately with pink roses and masses of Southern similar. There were no attendants. Miss Louise Cavander played the march from "Tannhaeuser" for the entrance of the bride and bridegroom. The ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Hymes of the Grace Presbyterian Church.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin charmuse elaborated with curriemacross lace and her tulle veil was trimmed with the same lace. The bridal bouquet was of lilies of the valley and maidenhair ferns with streamers of white satin ribbons and tulle.

Following the ceremony there was an informal wedding supper. The dining room was also in pink and green decorations and the bridal colors were carried out in the ices and confections, which were in bridal bell, slipper and cupid designs, and the cakes were heart-shaped and decorated with pink rosebuds. Mr. Green and his bride departed later in the evening for a wedding journey and will be at home after Jan. 15 at 2896 Sutherland avenue, Indianapolis. The bride's traveling suit was of violet charmuse velvet with a hat of the same tones. Among the guests were the bride's brother, Edward M. Harrison of Chicago, who gave his sister in marriage, and Miss Elizabeth Denning of St. Paul.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess will have the usual change of program tonight, showing two reels of pictures. "An Elephant on their Hands" is the title of the first, a Vitagraph comedy. The other is a Lubin western drama "The Uprising." Tomorrow afternoon a free matinee for children under 12 years of age will be given and on Christmas Day a matinee at the usual price is announced.

The Erie will show a drama "The Price of Paradise" for the first picture tonight. The other is a comedy entitled "The Jack of Diamonds."

The Palace has a feature picture "The White Fawn" for the first film tonight. It is a Shamrock drama and is said to be a beautiful production. "Two Little Boys" is the title of the other an Eclair comedy.

Robert B. Mantell, considered the legitimate successor on the American stage of that distinguished line of tragedians which included Forrest, Kean, McCullough, the Booths, and Mansfield, and the only actor in this country now attempting the heavier roles of Shakespeare and the other classical dramatists, comes to the Shubert-Murat Theater, Indianapolis. Monday evening for a Christmas week's engagement in a formidable repertoire. Mr. Mantell will be seen first as Brutus in an elaborate production of "Julius Caesar." This play, perhaps the most popular in America, owing to its wide use in the schools and colleges, of all the Shakespearean dramas will be repeated at the Saturday matinee.

Mr. Mantell's leading woman, this year is Miss Florence Rockwell, who, when a girl, received training in classic acting in the strict school of Richard Mansfield with whom she became leading woman.

Mr. Mantell's repertoire for the week in Indianapolis is made up of "Julius Caesar," Monday evening and Saturday afternoon; "Hamlet," Tuesday evening; "The Merchant of Venice," Wednesday afternoon; "Othello," Wednesday evening; "King Lear," Thursday evening; "Macbeth," Friday evening, and "Richard III," Saturday evening.

Mr. Mantell has made special Christmas week prices of 50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.50 for his Indianapolis engagement. Mail orders with remittance will be filled in order of their receipt. The regular box office sale opened Thursday.

GOVERNOR DONAGHEY

Arkansas' Chief Executive,
Who Freed 360 Convicts.

GOVERNOR DONAGHEY DEFENDS HIS ACTION

Demands Abolition of Arkansas Convict System.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 23.—Governor Donaghey has issued a statement in defense of his action in issuing pardons to 360 state convicts, characterizing the Arkansas penitentiary "under the lease system as a burning, seething hell, consuming human beings, who are 'being fed into it in a manner which results in nothing but making fortunes for contractors.'"

The executive, answering his critics, previously had said that "all those who oppose the abolishment of the inhuman convict system which we now have in Arkansas are, in my opinion, bound in the direction of that place spoken of by Governor Bleasie in connection with the constitution, and it is my belief they are going to land there in spite of every effort of mine to prevent them doing so."

According to a newspaper compilation forty-three of the convicts pardoned were convicted of murder or manslaughter, 111 of grand larceny, four of assault, five of robbery, nineteen of forgery, thirty-two of burglary, twenty-six of assault to kill, and others of crimes ranging from hog stealing to bigamy.

May Cost Him His Life.
Shelbyville, Ind., Dec. 23.—Claude Shaw, forty-three years old, lost an arm through the accidental discharge of a shotgun. Seeing a squirrel, Mr. Shaw seized the gun by the muzzle as it rested against a bush and the hammer was pulled back by a twig. The charge shattered his left arm above the elbow and he nearly bled to death before medical aid could reach him. His condition is dangerous.

Panama Awaits Mr. Taft.
Panama, Dec. 23.—President Porras has issued a decree naming Former Presidents Mendoza, Boyd and Chirri as a committee to organize a reception and series of festivities to President Taft, who is now on his way here. The general opinion here is that the visit of Mr. Taft will result in the reorganization of the government of the canal zone.

Boy Killer Found Guilty.
Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 23.—After twenty-six hours of deliberation the jury in the case of Frank Hickey, on trial for the murder of seven-year-old Joseph Joseph of Lackawanna, Oct. 12, 1911, brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree. The penalty is not less than twenty years at hard labor in state prison.

Steamship Long Overdue.
Philadelphia, Dec. 23.—Great concern is felt by shipping men for the steamship Snowden Range, which sailed from this port on Nov. 23 for Leith, Scotland. Nothing has been heard of the ship, which is fourteen days overdue. The vessel carried a crew of twenty-five men.

Registered Mail Stolen.
Springfield, Ill., Dec. 23.—Two rifled mail sacks stolen from a Wabash train were found in a vacant lot here. One of the pouches had contained registered mail, and the officials say the loss will aggregate over $10,000.

CHURCH DRAWN INTO CONFLICT

Mexican Mass Stirred Up By
New Factor.

THE CABINET IS IN DANGER

Action of Minister of Interior in Appealing to the Catholic Church Authorities to Take a Hand in Pacification of the Rebels Has Led to the Exercise of Powerful Pressure to Oust Him From the Cabinet.

Mexico City, Dec. 23.—Every effort is being made by President Madero to discount the action of Rafael Hernandez, minister of the interior, who appealed to the Catholic church authorities to assist in the pacification of Mexican rebels. The administration has issued an appeal to the Protestants and the Free Masons of the republic to lend their aid in stamping out the bandits and insurgents scattered from one end of the country to the other. At the same time Hernandez has been severely rebuked and powerful pressure is being brought to bear to have him ousted from the cabinet.

One result of the appeal of the cabinet member to the Catholic church is the bloodthirsty threat made by Zapata, rebel leader in the southern states, who announced that if any Catholic priest should preach or pray against the Zapatistas, that priest would be immediately shot.

Bloody Battle at Ascension.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 23.—Two hundred and fifty federal soldiers of the Mexican army were annihilated by rebels in a fight at Ascension, 100 miles south of Juarez, according to refugees who fled from the place when the fighting was in progress. Those refugees brought an official confirmation to General Aubert at Juarez, from the commander of the federal forces, who declared that he and fifteen men had escaped and were making for Casas Grandes, further south.

ROUNDING THEM UP

Chicago Police Believe They Have Famous Automobile Bandits.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Nine persons, five men and four women, are under arrest in connection with the murder of J. H. Logan, diamond merchant in McVicker's theater building, and the police are strongly inclined to believe that they have succeeded in breaking up a dangerous gang of bandits. At least, some of the prisoners are suspected of participating in or knowing something about nearly all the safe-blowings and other criminal depredations that have taken place in Chicago in the last fortnight. Search of the north side flat where the prisoners had lived revealed a large quantity of nitroglycerine, safe wreckers' tools and thousands of dollars' worth of jewelry and miscellaneous plunder.

The persons held by the police are: Clyde Stratton, a convict who escaped from the penitentiary at Columbus, O.; H. B. Hampden, declared by the police to be a safeblower with many aliases; Mrs. H. B. Hampden; Mrs. Margaret Johnson, said to be the wife of a safeblower known as "Toronto Jimmie" Johnson; Frank Williams, declared by the police to have a prison record; William Duffy, a chauffeur; Clifford Dysten, a chauffeur; a woman known as Edna Collyer, and an unidentified woman, said to be a relative of Mrs. Johnson.

CAUGHT IN BLAZE

Fire in a Brussels "Movie" Claims Many Lives.

Brussels, Dec. 23.—Many persons were killed when fire broke out in a moving picture theater here. The fire, which began during the matinee performance, destroyed the building. Some of the people in the theater were burned to death, while others were caught in the crush at the door and suffocated.

Complicates the Situation.

Constantinople, Dec. 23.—The Turkish cabinet held a conference Sunday in reference to the representations received from the plenipotentiaries at the London peace conference after Saturday's meeting had adjourned because the Bulgarians and the other allies would not agree to the revivification of Adrianople. New instructions were telegraphed to London. The opinion is that the porte will appeal to the powers to help them in reaching an agreement.

Sickles's Son to the Rescue.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 23.—Stanton Sickles, son of General Daniel E. Sickles of New York, has promised to see that the state is reimbursed for all funds unaccounted for by his father as chairman of the New York state monument commission, totalling about $25,000.

Senator Attacked by Appendicitis.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Suffering from a sudden attack of appendicitis, Senator Lee A. Overman of North Carolina was taken to the hospital. The physicians decided to delay the operation until the patient's condition improved.

TELLS OF HARDSHIP THE TERRITORY OF

Dr. Anderson Collected 1,000
Rare Specimens of Animal Life.

THE return to New York several days ago of Dr. Rudolph Anderson, biologist and second in command of the Stefansson-Anderson expedition sent to the arctic in the interests of the American Museum of Natural History and the Canadian geological survey, marked the end of nearly four years and a half of observation and exploration undertaken by him and Vilhjalmur Stefansson.

It was Dr. Anderson's job to investigate the conditions of animal life in the region of Coronation gulf, a part of the body of water separating Victoria island from the Mackenzie territory of the mainland.

In his collection of 1,000 specimens are the skins and skeletons of many rare animals and birds, of which the nineteen barren island bears are perhaps the most valuable. The bird collection includes specimens of the whistling swan, black brant, Hutchins' goose, northern and red phalarope, snowflake, Lapland longspur, parasitic jaeger, red throated loon and willow ptarmigan, all from the vicinity of Colville delta.

Dr. Anderson said that the expedition had collected enough scientific data of value to make it worth the four years and a half spent out of reach of civilization.

"We covered nearly the entire coast from Colville river to Coronation gulf," said Dr. Anderson, "making several trips inland along the Mackenzie, Horton and Dense rivers and finding in some regions, hitherto marked uninhabited, tribes of Eskimos that had never before seen a white man."

"Among the so called blond Eskimos we found copper needles in use instead of bone ones, and most of their other utensils were made of copper also. The supply of this metal is abundant in this region, a great deal of it called copper float, being on the surface and easily recognizable. Of course the difficulty in making any use of this storehouse of riches lies in the fact that there is no way of transporting it."

Blond Eskimos Poor Marksmen.

"These Eskimos still use spears and bows and arrows to kill game for food, and they are amazingly poor marksmen. A group of them shot more than twenty arrows at a single ptarmigan one day before they killed it. Their implements are all of the most primitive variety."

"There is an immense territory south of the Endicott mountains and north of the Yukon which the white prospectors have not yet reached except in a few places. The Rampart house and Fort Yukon Indians do not range so far north except in summer, and the Eskimos seldom cross the mountains. To the knowledge of the natives, no white man had ever crossed the mountains in this region."

"Starting inland in December, 1908, we decided that it would take too long to return to Maxam island for flour and other supplies before crossing the mountains, and, having as much nutrition as we could carry on our sleds, after leaving a few carcasses cached to fall back upon near the end of the Hulahula river, we crossed the divide on Dec. 4. The week before we had hauled a load of meat to within a quarter of a mile of the summit and camped one night above the willow line."

"We now took the sleds over singly by putting ten dogs in harness with six men boosting and pulling. Descending a rocky creek gorge, we reached large willows before night. The second day devoted to hunting brought in one sheep out of eleven."

"The third day's travel brought us to green spruce trees. Ptarmigan were scarce and hard to find, as the river valley was wild. We were on pretty short rations before we struck the caribou herds on the high foothills on Dec. 18. The snow was very deep and soft on the south side of the divide. Our sleds were soon stalled, and we were delayed three days cutting trees, hewing out boards and making toboggans."

Had Porcupine Dinner.

"A trail had to be snowshoed ahead, and travel was slow, all hands 'slugging' in harness with the dogs. Two porcupines and a great gray owl proved welcome additions to our larder. Canada jays were observed a few miles north of the limit of spruce trees, and ravens were often in sight."

"During the latter part of December we saw many caribou, at one time more than 1,000 within rifle range—a magnificent spectacle. We lived in tents until Dec. 27, when we built a hut of poles covered with blocks of moss, living in it until late in January, occasionally seeing caribou, which were always moving eastward."

"We had a rather thrilling experience in the fall of the next year, 1909, when, after a hard trip over deep soft snow with heavily loaded sleds, we crossed a deep estuary seven or eight miles wide at the mouth of a large river known as the Kuglik (the western mouth of the Anderson river)."

"We crossed in a blinding snowstorm and were stopped near the eastern side by a strip of very thin ice, from 100

AND ADVENTURE IN THE BLOND ESKIMOS

ments From Abundant

to 200 yards wide. We followed the edge of this lead south for about half a mile and barely succeeded in crossing a lead about seventy-five yards wide, rushing the sleds across singly, although the ice sagged deeply.

"On the morning of Nov. 23, 1909, three of us left Horton river to get a large number of needed articles cached in an old house near the wreck of the steam whaler Alexander at Cape Parry. The thermometer stood at 31 degrees below zero, and a gale was blowing from west-northwest, with snow drifting everywhere, but as the wind was a little abate we made good time."

"We expected to reach Langton bay in one 'sleep,' so took only six small fish with us—one each for supper and the same for breakfast. But the next day the wind increased, blowing all the ice away from the beach, necessitating much hard pulling over bare ground and sand covered snow. Nov. 25 we were unable to travel at all, and we reached Langton bay on the evening of the 26th after a fast of sixty hours."

Bears Raided Stores.

"We reached the cache near the wreck of the Alexander on Dec. 3. Polar bears had broken into the house and devoured four boxes (about 500 pounds) of whale blubber (all our dog food), two slabs of bacon, overturned and spilled a ten gallon can of alcohol (all we had left) and knocked things about generally. Bears had also cleaned out a cache of ugnik (bearded seal) meat and blubber which Stefansson had made some distance down the ford."

"We started back to Mackenzie delta on June 16, 1910, finding traveling much better, as the snow had disappeared and water had run down through cracks, leaving a smooth surface of solid ice five or six feet thick, but rapidly disintegrating into sharp prismatic needles."

"Travel was rapid, but exceedingly hard on the dogs' feet, which had to be protected by boots or often rewrapped in calico. Sailing from Kittigavik on June 19, three days brought us from the ice fields to the almost tropical heat of the Mackenzie delta proper. Mosquitoes were abundant, and on the 22d I found a robin's nest with four young birds. The season seemed to be fully a month further advanced than it was twenty-five or thirty miles north. Fresh mouse tracks were seen, and rabbits appeared to be numerous."

"We crossed the divide on Sept. 21 and camped on the southern slope, although with no fuel but green willows. Next day we moved south about six miles before we sighted a band of ten caribou. We made camp at once and succeeded in killing eight. It was dark before I finished skinning two for specimens, and, failing to find camp, I was obliged to walk the rest of the night to keep from freezing."

"During our entire four years and a half the times when we depended upon the supplies we brought from civilization we often went hungry, but the year during which we lived on the country we never missed a single meal."

"Whenever we got in touch with ships, however, a certain amount of provisions must be obtained to satisfy native employees, who seemed to consider the 'luxuries' of civilization (flour, molasses, etc.) more necessary than did either Stefansson or myself. A native lives only in the present and considers that he is justified in demanding whatever creature comforts are obtainable, while we were willing to make sacrifices in order to accomplish an end some distance in the future."

Hard Sledding With Specimens.

"After Dr. Stefansson had left the party I went back to Coronation gulf, where my 1,000 specimens had been cached. We loaded them on sledges, of which we had only two, and dragged them in three trips to Baile island, ninety miles away, the total weight of the whole collection being about five tons. By a mere lucky chance we were able to haul the whaler Belvedere, which cleared from Bedford, R. I., thirty years ago and has never returned to the Atlantic coast."

"We loaded the specimens and then spent several months cruising for whales, of which we got a number of fine specimens. We killed them with hard lances, at the end of which were concussion bombs, which exploded inside the whale's body."

PERFUMES BY HYPODERMIC.

Actress Starts New Paris Fad in Use of Scents.

Fashionable Parisians are now using scent by hypodermic injection. Attar of roses, violet and cherry blossom perfumes are the favorites for this purpose. The craze was started by a popular actress, who declared that within forty-eight hours after an injection her skin was saturated with aroma.

BOY WANTS TO GO CHRISTMAS TIME TO PLAINFIELD SEES MANY FIRES

Youth Who Stole Horse and Buggy at Knightstown Expresses Unusual Wish.

JUDGE PREFERS FARM LIFE

Says he Has Little Faith in Reform Results Obtained at State Institution.

Roy McLearn, the sixteen-year-old Virginia boy, who was arrested in Indianapolis two weeks ago on the charge of stealing a horse and buggy from a hitchhiker in Knightstown and who was returned, to Newcastle by the members of the Knightstown Horse-thief Detective association, was arraigned before Judge Jackson in circuit court Saturday, says the Newcastle Courier. He entered a plea of guilty and sentence was withheld, pending an opportunity to secure employment for the youngster.

The boy expressed a desire to go to the Plainfield reform school for boys. He said that he was desirous of learning a trade and securing an education. Judge Jackson stated that he had but little faith in the reform results of the Plainfield institution and stated that he would attempt to secure a home on a farm in Henry county for the prisoner. If he failed in that course the court then announced that he would send McLearn to Plainfield.

The boy stated that his parents died when he was about five years of age. After that he lived with his uncle in Gettysburg, Va., until he was nine years of age. Then he left his uncle's home and had been wandering over the country ever since up to the time of his arrest.

At Knightstown he said that he met two boys, whose names he did not remember, and they suggested that he steal the horse and drive to Indianapolis where they would meet him. On his arrival in Indianapolis McLearn was immediately picked up by the police.

CARTHAGE BEATS LOCALS, 24 TO 23

Visitors Take Fast Basketball Game From Rushville by Margin of One Point.

FIRST DEFEAT ON HOME FLOOR

The Rushville high school basketball team was again defeated Saturday night. This time it was the Carthage team that turned the trick, the final score being 24 to 23. It was the first home game the locals have lost and Carthage was forced to the limit to win. From start to finish the score was close and at no time was there over a margin of two points between the teams. The first half ended with Carthage in the lead, 14 to 13.

The Rushville team played in tough luck and seemed unable to get together. Towards the last the locals came from behind but lost a chance to tie the score. The game was one of the best played on the local floor and was a hard blow to the Rushville team as it was confident of winning. The next game is at Richmond, January 3.

LONG LARRY McLEAN.

Long Larry McLean, who caught a game at Newcastle last summer for the Rushville team, may play with the Louisville club of the A. A. the coming season. Business Manager Neal is trying to start a trade. There are several clubs after Larry, although he was turned down by Indianapolis recently.

Born, to the wife of Chase Maury, in North Main street, a nine pound girl.

Evergreen Trees and Inflammable Draperies Cause Loss of Life and Property Each Year.

FOR A SANE OBSERVANCE

Use Electricity and Abestos Instead of Cotton and Combustible Decorations—Should Use Care.

Christmas and its joys should not be allowed to blind men to the ordinary rules of safety for the protection of the home and the lives of the family. And yet at holiday time parents who try to keep their children free from even the possibility of danger will install in the heart of their homes, where it is sure to be the center of attraction for the little ones, most the inflammable thing that ever enters it—the ordinary evergreen Christmas tree.

While it grows more dry and dangerous in the warm rooms they drape it with cotton for snow, tissue paper loops and tinsel for decorations, stick candies all over it, hand up toys that every child will grab for, and then trust to luck and providence for safety from a hazard that may prove as dangerous and as deadly as a rattlesnake or an open keg of gunpowder.

Just to play fair and take his share of the chances pater familias often surrounds himself with pillows, puts on cotton hair and whiskers and makes himself more of a menace than a help in case a fire should start. And fires do start, thousands of them every holiday season.

Firemen look forward to a run of Christmas tree fires just as they did to Fourth of July fire before the sane Fourth movement put an end to them in many places. Why not a sane Christmas as well as a sane Fourth? Why should the children's festival be made the means of destroying hundreds of lives and thousands of homes?

Use little electric lights instead of candles, asbestos instead of cotton, non-combustible decorations instead of inflammables, and then watch the tree with the utmost care, especially when the children are around it. It's better to be safe than sorry, especially with the little ones at Christmas time.

The Rev. J. B. Meacham, who has been seriously ill with bronchitis at his home in North Morgan street, is gradually improving.

At the regular meeting of the K. of P. lodge tonight, the nomination of officers will take place. The annual election will be held one week from tonight.
